★ ★ Memorial Day 2021 ★ ★

THE QUINCY VETERANS COUNCIL will hold a brief Memorial Day observance at Mount Wollaston Cemetery Monday, May 31 at 10:30 a.m. The public is welcome to attend. For the second year in a row, there will be no Memorial Day Parade in Quincy due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The ceremony will be held near the main flag pole and veterans' section of the cemetery. (In the event of rain the ceremony will be held inside Quincy High School.) There are more than 800 veterans interred in the veterans' section at Mount Wollaston Cemetery. Quincy Veterans Services staff, City of Quincy employees and volunteers place an American flag at every veteran's grave - more than 7,500 - in six city cemeteries in honor of their service to the nation while serving in the U.S. Armed Forces. Besides Mount Wollaston the other cemeteries are Pine Hill, Sailor's Pond, Hancock Cemetery, Snug Harbor in Germantown and Hall Place in West Quincy.

THIS PHOTO of the Veterans' Section at Mount Wollaston Cemetery was taken before the Memorial Day Parade in 2019 with the main American flag lowered to half staff. Per U.S. Flag Code, on Memorial Day, the American flag should be briskly raised to the peak and remain there for an instant before it is slowly lowered to the half-staff position, where it remains until noon.

Full In-Person Learning Eyed For Next School Year

By SCOTT JACKSON

State officials are preparing guidance for the new academic year that would set the stage for a return to full in-person learning when school starts in September.

Quincy Supt. Kevin Mulvey told the School Committee on May 19 that state education commissioner Jeff Riley is expected to issue the guidance for the new school year next month.

"The commissioner is, from the information we have received, looking at a full, normal return to school in September. That is the goal, barring any type of COVID flare up or a variant of some kind or something like that," Mulvey said.

"Our information is that the state is preparing guidance for a full in-person return, and that will address masks as well."

Mulvey said the district is likewise preparing for a return to full in-person learning in September. That would include a return to full-day kindergarten as well.

"We are preparing in a similar fashion obviously," Mulvey said. "This would include full in-person, full-day kindergarten as well."

The state guidance for the current school year requires three feet of spacing in classrooms. That could present a challenge for next year, Mulvey said, but the district would be able to meet that requirement if needed.

"One of the obstacles we may have, and it is certainly not an obstacle that will keep us from bringing back students from full in-person if that is the will of the state, is the distance requirement of three feet," the superintendent said. "That will make it difficult, it will be a challenge, but we will, as we have done since the beginning of the pandemic, make it work."

"Certainly we are hoping that this guidance we are getting from the state will eliminate that distance requirement, assuming the safety protocols from the state and CDC say that is safe to do."

While preparing for next year, Committee member Emily Lebo said the district needs to be ready to move to remote learning if needed.

"There is a remote chance that we might have to go remote, and I think we need to have a plan for that and just make sure that students who need Chromebooks have them — because we want them using them in school because we have found lots of ways they were helpful," Lebo said.

"If students don't [have their own device], I think it is our obligation at this point. We are hoping our teachers will use more technology as they move forward and we may have to be ready to go remote, so we should be ready."

Mulvey said the district would be ready to move to the remote model if needed.

"We have learned from this past year our strengths and weaknesses and obviously we have corrected areas of weakness," he said.

The district had ordered 7,000 Chromebooks for students last summer before this school year started, but their delivery was delayed because of high demand for laptops worldwide amid the pandemic. Mulvey said the district now has a large

Early College High School Could Start Next Year

By SCOTT JACKSON

A new program offering 300 Quincy Public Schools students the chance to earn college credit while they are in high school is planned to start next year.

School administrators provided an overview of the new initiative, known as Early College High School, during the May 19 meeting of the School Committee. The school district is working with Quincy College on the new initiative, which would run in addition to the ongoing dual enrollment program the school system and college offer.

"We have this opportunity to expand that partnership to Early College High School to expand additional opportunities to students, in particular students in high-needs categories," Supt. Kevin Mulvey said.

Quincy College received a $1.5 million grant from the State Street Foundation to fund the new initiative, Mulvey said, which will cover the cost of the first three years of the program. The grant will cover all student expenses, such as books and fees.

Meghan Cassidy, an associate vice president at Quincy College, said there are currently 23 Early College High School programs offered throughout the state. Those partnerships have all been approved by the state, she said, and the state could approve the new program between Quincy College and Quincy Public Schools next month.

Such programs are designed for students who might not otherwise plan to further their education after high school.

"It is designed to welcome students into an inclusive and supportive community they remain a part of up until graduation," Cassidy said.

"The real focus here is that they are earning college credit through taking a sequence of early college courses...that are aligned with courses at Quincy College and will really give these students an opportunity to explore and consider what it means to pursue post-secondary education and what it can really look like to be successful in that setting."

The State Street grant will allow for the hiring of four employees — a guidance counselor at each high school and two advisors working at the college — who would work closely with the program's students.

"Students are going to receive robust support both in and outside of the classroom," Cassidy said.

"It really comes down to this being more than just taking a few classes that are aligned to college curriculum. They are essentially providing the support, the strategies, a lot of the conversations that students might not necessarily be receiving, or know they have to ask for, as they think about post-secondary success and what that could be for them."

Up to 300 students could participate in the program, Cassidy said, half at Quincy High School and half at North Quincy High School. The program would be offered in grades 10-12.

Rob Shaw, the principal at North Quincy High, said the program would include core classes like English. Participating students must also take at least one arts class, a requirement that not all high school students have to meet.

Under the model the district is proposing, Shaw said participating grade 10 students at both high schools would take a half year each of criminal justice and music across cultures, both of which are aligned with current Quincy College courses.

In grade 11, students would take a half year each of introduction to environmental science and U.S. history II — a continuation of the U.S. history courses all tenth graders take.

In grade 12, the students would take college-level

Two Join Manet Health Center Board Of Directors

The Manet Community Health Center Board of Directors announces Donna L. Maher, of Weymouth, and Karen M. Ward, of Quincy, have joined the board.

"We are so pleased to welcome Donna and Karen to the Manet Board and, at this place in the pandemic, feel very fortunate to have the benefit of their exceptional insights and perspectives," says Board President Robert Griffin. "Their understanding of the important role a community health center has in the lives of patients and communities is evident and will serve an anchor throughout their board tenure, as we pursue our vision to be an innovative, compassionate, welcoming health center that is a provider, employer, partner and charity of choice."

Maher is a health care executive with extensive leadership experience in operations, quality improvement and patient experience. Since her retirement in 2018, she has served as a consultant for health systems, both locally and across the country. Previously, she spent 18 years with Morton Hospital in Taunton, MA, starting as Director of Performance Improvement, then Vice President of Professional Services/Patient Safety Officer, and most recently as Chief Operating Officer. Her career also includes executive positions at Metrowest Medical Center in Framingham, and Good Samaritan Medical Center.

She holds an Associate of Nursing Degrees from Laboure College, as well as a Bachelor of Business Administration and Master of Public Administration & Health Care Administration from Suffolk University. Maher is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

Ward currently serves as the Regulatory Document Compliance Manager for the Bill & Melinda Gates Medical Research Institute. Previously, she was a Non-clinical Scientific Writer/Editor at Alnylam Pharmaceuticals. However, she spent most of her career as an early discovery neuroscientist at Pfizer Worldwide Research and Development in Groton, CT and Cambridge.

She earned a Bachelor of Science in Psychobiology (Neuroscience) at Trinity College, and graduate certificates in Nonprofit Management and Biopharmaceutical Domestic Regulatory Affairs from Northeastern University. She also served on the board of Sound Community Services in New London, CT.

In addition to Griffin, Maher and Ward, the Manet Board of Directors includes Vice President Grace Murphy-McAuliffe of Quincy; Secretary Ivan Wong of Quincy; Treasurer Stephen Keches, East Walpole, and board members: Anne Bisson of Fall River; John Brothers of Braintree; Samantha Chen of Quincy; Zachary Eaton of Quincy; Lawrence Flanagan of Canton; John Galluzzo of Haverhill; Neda Hovaizi, DDS, of Milton; Linda Kelly of Quincy; Jane Kisieli, MSN, RN, of Quincy; Joseph M. Reardon of Milton; Henry, "Hank" Rittal, formerly of Quincy; and Manet CEO Cynthia Sierra, who serves as a non-voting member of the board.

Bersani Circle Apartment Complex Rehab Completed

Ribbon Cutting Celebrates $2.2M Project

The Karsten Development Corporation hosted a ribbon cutting ceremony for the Bersani Circle community May 11. The ribbon cutting ceremony took place at 10-30 Bersani Circle, North Quincy.

The Karsten Development Corporation of Weymouth is a vertically integrated construction and development firm that serves the northeast corridor.

The community was an existing aged 32-unit apartment complex in need of a substantial redevelopment. Throughout construction, this development prioritized the needs of the existing and future residents of the community.

"The commitment and success of this redevelopment has changed the lives of the families and children who call Bersani Circle home," said Tracey Som-

Bersani Circle now offers newly renovated two-bedroom, one bath apartment homes. The interior renovations included upgraded kitchens and bathrooms. The infrastructure scope consisted of plumbing and electrical upgrades, heating systems, roofs, entry porches, parking lots and landscaping.

The joint effort of the funding partners, The City of Quincy Affordable Housing Trust Fund, The Quincy Community Preservation Committee, Mass Development, Boston Financial, and East Boston Savings Bank has been a true template for inclusive development. Thanks to the groundbreaking collaboration between these partners to use the development of the site to address gentrification head on and ensure lasting affordable housing for all.

Spring Food Drive At East Church June 5

East Congregational Church will host a spring Food Drive on Saturday, June 5 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., rain or shine.

Donated items will support The Milton Community Food Pantry and the pantry at Quincy's Interfaith Social Services.

East Church is located at 610 Adams St. in East Milton.

Donations will be received at the church's side parking lot on Granite Place.

Volunteers will be present to unload your vehicle.

All non-expired, non-perishable food items are welcome. Additionally, the pantries have made special requests for soups, diapers, feminine hygiene products, toiletries, and pet food.

Quincy Scout Seeks Funds To Help Eagle Scout Project

My name is Maurice Ampiane and I am an Eagle Scout candidate from Troop 42 in Quincy.

One of the requirements to obtain the rank of Eagle Scout is the Eagle Scout project. My planned Eagle Scout project is a reflection area (circle of pavers, with a bench, peace pole, and plantings) at Hall Cemetery in West Quincy. The reflection area will be a place of rest and for community members to reflect on loved ones lost.

Due to unforeseen circumstances the price of my Eagle Scout project has tripled. The current projected cost of the project is $3,000. I plan on investing $300 from my savings to support the project.

My goal is to raise $2,000 from community donations. I have established a Gofundme page (<https://gofund.me/874c3bf0>), a venmo for the project (@

QUINCY SCOUT MAURICE AMPLANE plans to create a reflection area featuring pavers, a bench, peace pole and plantings at Hall Cemetery in West Quincy as his Eagle Scout project. He is seeking funds to help defray the cost of the project which has tripled to $3,000.

Maurice.Ampiane), and can take mail in donations, payable to "Quincy Friends of Scouting" at 21 Puritan Dr., Quincy, MA 02169. The remaining cost of the project will be contributed by solicitations from businesses; community and state politicians, and the generous support of the benefactor, the City of Quincy's Cemetery Department. Any and all excess funds will be used to support Troop 42 in Quincy and the growth of the community's youth.

Ultimately, I believe my project will support not only the families interred at Hall Cemetery but also the community members of West Quincy. Thank you so much for your consideration and any support.

DiBona Thanks Mulvey, School Committee For Continuing Early Release Days On Wednesdays

This past week, the Quincy School Committee approved the calendar for the upcoming school year 2021-2022. I was very happy to see the new early release day will continue to be on Wednesday.

The past year with Covid-19, the children of Quincy Public Schools switched from Tuesdays to Wednesdays for early release day. As a parent with three children in Quincy Public Schools, we as a family did well with the change. The benefits of attending school for 2 full days, then a mid-week half a day, then back to 2 full days worked so well for my kids. The mid-week half day allowed my wife and I better planning and scheduling throughout the week for our family, work and activities.

Eight years ago, while I was campaigning for School Committee, several parents voiced their frustration with early release day on Tuesdays. Many parents told me that Wednesdays would be a better day, since it was in the middle of the week. Years later, it has come to fruition.

This past year has been challenging for many of us from Covid-19 but at least something positive came out of it. We are all looking forward to the upcoming school year and I hope other families will benefit from the mid-week half day. Thank you Superintendent Mulvey and the Quincy School Committee for taking into consideration the feedback from the community and ultimately making the change.

Thanks City, State For Investment In Safer Streets; Let's Do More To Protect Our Neighbors

To the Editor:

I want to thank the City of Quincy and the Commonwealth for their recent investment in safer streets in Quincy. Grants from the Complete Streets program and the Shared Streets and Spaces program have improved everyone's safety on some of our more dangerous roads.

Quincy Avenue, site of a pedestrian fatality last June, recently underwent a lane reconfiguration funded by the State's Shared Streets and Spaces program. These grants are intended to improve "public spaces in support of public health, safe mobility, and renewed commerce" during COVID. Since the changes were made, I have both driven and biked this route and I appreciate the calmer traffic environment and dedicated bike lanes that buffer the sidewalk and reduce the number of vehicle lanes pedestrians must cross. According to our city traffic engineer, Allison Ruel, there has been "insignificant change in travel time/delay through the corridor." Safer and still the same travel times? A double win to me.

In addition, the Complete Streets funded project on Quarry Street was finished last month with a bollard and paint buffered bike lane. I walk, drive, and bike on Quarry Street and the changes are welcome to me in all modes. The bollards are on the section of the Quarry Street where a school bus crashed into a house in 2016 sending children to the hospital and a distracted driver crashed into another house in 2017. When driving, the bollards focus my attention and slow me down while still providing space to pull over should emergency vehicles need to pass. When on my bike, I appreciate the additional protection the bollards provide. They make riding a bike a less stressful experience and, as a result, have biked more often on Quarry Street since the buffers were put in. Quincy took a wide street that invited dangerous speeds and made it safer for everyone.

The tragic number of pedestrian fatalities in the past year have shown we have a long way to go to make all of Quincy streets safe. We should not tolerate these deaths and crashes as an acceptable outcome of the choice to drive. We have made a great start, now let's do more to protect our neighbors.

Thank You, Mayor Koch

On July 9, 2020, there was a letter in the Readers Forum titled "Mayor Has Shown Steady Leadership, Protective Guidance" in troubled times.

Since that time I can think of two examples that support that claim. One is the mayor withdraws his plan for the college, city hall building and the other is his decision not to fund a department of social justice and equity.

Thank you, Mayor Koch.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1937 real photo postcard picture of an Eastern Mass Street Railway trolley car on Washington Street in Quincy Square. As the sign over the trolley's windows states - trolley cars ran every seven minutes - Quincy Square to Boston. The building on the right was on the corner of Coddington Street and was a rooming house known as Coddington Chambers. In 1945, it became home to the old Quincy Chamber of Commerce for about a dozen years. The street level store of the building on the left was home to the Waldorf Lunch Systems until 1945 when they moved across the way to Hancock Street. This store then became part of an expanding Bargain Center that had opened in 1937 in a building next door just out of view on the left. Today, this section of Washington Street across from the First Parish Church is home to Presidents Place. The postcard is from John Bromley of Scarborough, Ontario, Canada.

Supports Funding To Expand YouthSpeak Program

I was moved and impressed by the presentation by DOVE's Executive Director, Sue Chandler and Director of Community Education and Prevention, Jennifer Bolton to the Quincy School Committee on May 5. The data they shared on the prevalence of dating violence among teens is startling and powerful. They quoted, "one in three girls in the US is a victim of physical, emotional or verbal abuse from a dating partner, a figure that far exceeds rates of other types of youth violence." The training, education and peer leadership prevention resources that DOVE provides are an invaluable asset to our community and the School District.

DOVE, Inc. and QPS have had a successful 15+ year partnership through the YouthSpeak program at North Quincy High. I agree with the other School Committee members that these important educational and peer leadership opportunities are necessary in both high schools as well as across all of the middle schools. During the meeting, Ms. Chandler indicated that DOVE is prepared to provide more staff capacity to Quincy Public Schools if resources became available. I support and encourage Mayor Koch and the Quincy School Committee to include funding to expand the YouthSpeak program in the 2021-22 QPS budget.

Dismayed By ZBA's Approval Of 16-Story NQ Building

As I read the Quincy Sun's news story (16-story Building Proposed for North Quincy, May 20), I was dismayed that the city's Zoning Board of Appeals has approved a developer's plans to construct a 16-story, 240-residential-unit tower at the foot of the Neponset Bridge.

We have all noticed the Manhattanization of lower Hancock Street from the North Quincy firehouse down to the bridge. North Quincy is starting to look like the Seaport District. Towers and dark canyons growing like a mountain range with seemingly little thought about upgrading the infrastructure to support all this so-called SmartGrowth around MBTA stations.

Adding another 240 units at the very end of Hancock Street after the Newport Avenue intersection seems a bit insane. Go further south near the firehouse, how many new residential units are scheduled for those high-rises next to the North Quincy Red Line stop.

It is positive news that developers want to build in Quincy and positive news that folks want to live here but rather than being a gateway to the city as the applicants of this development say, it could make things much more challenging to get in or out of the city from where the building is proposed. I know this site well because it is my cat's animal hospital right there and from time to time I might bring a pizza home at Domino's.

I have little idea how this projected residential building would greatly improve the surrounding area. If this new building is showing where Quincy is going, maybe it is not such a good place to go. I see too many units and too many vehicles garaged there. I also see Newbury Street as the entrance/exit to all these new residents as being quite problematic.

I foresee traffic backups up and down lower Hancock Street but especially near Hancock and Newbury streets. I am not too sure I buy that the new building would generate 60 to 70 vehicle trips during the busiest hour each morning and evening.

There are far more questions than answers in the news story. Major infrastructure plans need to be accomplished to make all these new developments on Hancock Street work for the benefit of Quincy and its people. Otherwise, things might get worse real soon rather than better.

Nice to know about the shuttle bus idea but I still see most still avoiding the MBTA Red Line in favor of their own vehicles.

Sheets Calls For Anti-Litter Ordinances

Pedestrians littering on public property and private property owners who don't keep their premises free of litter would be subject to a $25 fine under an ordinance proposed by Mayor James A. Sheets.

Sheets announced his administration is drafting a ticketing ordinance for litter. The mayor, who is using a Cambridge litter ordinance as a model, said he hopes to introduce such an ordinance at the June 4 meeting of the City Council.

The ordinance would need City Council approval before it is enacted.

METER FEEDING CRACKDOWN

Motorists who think they have out-manuevered city meter maids by feeding the meters in Quincy Square should think again.

Beginning this week the Department of Traffic and Parking will step up its enforcement of the exceeding meter violation, the so-called "meter feeding" in the Quincy Center business district, said Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom.

The city ordinance provides a one-hour time limit on all metered spaces on Hancock Street in the Quincy Square area between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. The one-hour limit applies even if additional coins are inserted to extend the time on the meter to avoid expiration.

Violators may be ticketed under Code 21 "Exceeding Meter Ordinance." The fine for this violation is $55 and violators may be ticketed more than once per day.

According to Kinnecom, the purpose of the ordinance is to ensure there is a regular turnover of parking spaces for customers and patrons of businesses in the Square.

MPL Virtual Talks For Adults, Families During June

By JEAN HLADY
Head of Adult Services/Reference
Milton Public Library

In the month of June, the Milton Public Library is hosting some enjoyable virtual talks for adults and families, plus a fun in-person urban hike.

On Wednesday, June 2, there will be a workshop with Joan F. Smith in a Zoom program called: "Writing Local with the Writer-in-Residence." This program, which starts at 7 p.m., will be an opportunity for people living, working, or from Milton (and the surrounding area) to reflect on and write about their experiences with a specific spot, space, or place in town. Come with your sharpened pencil, ready to write, once you have registered in advance!

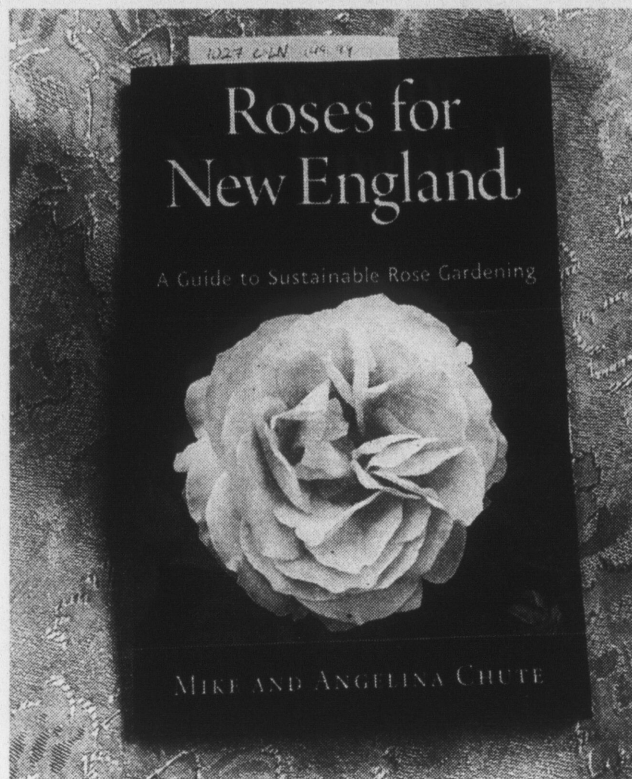

Then on Tuesday, June 8, at 7 p.m., the Zoom topic is "Roses for New England" with expert gardeners Mike and Angie Chute. This special presentation is for every rose-lover who wants to grow hardy, healthy, and disease-resistant roses in their home gardens. It specifically addresses the merits and challenges of rose gardening in New England, and includes selection, planting, pruning, tips and personal anecdotes from the authors' 25 years of rose gardening experience.

Call the Reference Department at (617) 898-4964 to place a hold on their companion book and go to the Library's website to register as this is required in advance.

Then on Thursday, June 17, at 6:30 p.m., Dr. David Magit of Beth Israel Hospital-Milton will give a one-hour talk about sports medicine called "Arthroscopic Surgery: What You Need to Know." The orthopaedic surgeon and sports medicine specialist will discuss this common orthopedic procedure and how it is used to diagnose and treat joint problems pertaining to the knee, shoulder and elbow. Go to: www.miltonlibrary.org to learn more about this presentation and to pre-register to attend.

Next, on Tuesday, June 22, at 7 p.m., professional stand-up comedian, writer and professor Dave Rattigan will entertain us all with a virtual event called "Laughter in Your Life!" Now more than ever we need a good laugh, and this interactive hour does just that. Bring your jokes, funny stories, and creativity to the program using humor to have fun, reduce anxiety, and lead to a better quality of life.

As a college professor and comedian, Dave has been making people laugh for nearly three decades, in the classroom and on Sirius Satellite radio, as well as in live comedy

"Nature Armchair Travel: New Zealand - Penguins, Parrots and Pods." This is truly a wonderful opportunity for people of all ages to learn about the many rare birds and marine animals who are at home in the beautiful country of New Zealand. These include the comical yellow-eyed penguin. Watch and listen for these cute birds, plus the Antipodes Island parrots, rare New Zealand sea lions, and dusky dolphins as they frolic on the shores. Join us for the sights and sounds of animal personalities from this amazing country, and we hope you will bring the kids!

For more details and to sign up for these events which is required in advance, go to this link: <https://tinyurl.com/5c2buuhy>. Once signed up, a Zoom connection link will be Emailed to you.

For questions, email jhlady@ocln.org or call Jean Hlady at (617) 898-4964. We hope you might join library staff for an enjoyable virtual program this June!

Tips For Raised Bed And Elevated Gardening Success

By MELINDA MYERS

Raised beds and elevated gardens provide easier access to gardens and can increase space available for growing vegetables and flowers. You will enjoy convenience and easy access when including one or more in your landscape or on your patio, deck, or balcony.

Providing proper care for these elevated planting spaces will ensure the biggest possible harvest and a growing season filled with beautiful flowers. Adapting planting strategies and care to fit the needs of these unique growing spaces can help reduce maintenance.

It starts with creating and maintaining a healthy growing foundation. Fill your raised beds with a quality planting mix composed mostly of topsoil and compost. Or create your own planting mix with lasagna and Hugelkultur techniques. These methods allow you to convert plant trimmings, compost, and a minimal amount of soil into a quality planting mix.

Elevated gardens are garden with wheels or add basically containers on legs and usually filled with a quality, soilless planting mix. The lighter weight makes it much more suitable for this type of gardening. Look for a product that provides drainage yet retains moisture. Both features are important when gardening in smaller volumes of soil.

Make sure you have easy access to water and your gardens have means for excess water to drain. The limited soil mass and increased exposure to wind, heat and sunlight make planting mixes dry out more quickly than in-ground beds. Always water thoroughly to encourage deep, more drought tolerant roots.

Extend the time between watering by as much as 25% with the help of a sustainable, organic product like Wild Valley Farms' wool pellets (wildvalleyfarms.com). Made from wool waste, these pellets absorb and retain moisture releasing it when needed by the plants.

Purchase an elevated casters to the legs if you need to move your garden out of the way for entertaining. Take advantage of the added mobility to move your planter into the sun or shade as needed throughout the season.

Employ space saving techniques to maximize your gardens productivity. Space plants just far enough apart to reach their mature size. Plant quick-maturing vegetables like radishes, lettuce and beets between tomatoes, peppers and other vegetables that take longer to reach full size and start producing. You will be harvesting the short season vegetables just as the bigger plants need the space.

Look for compact flower and vegetable varieties that allow you to make the most of every square inch of these gardens. All-America Selections winner Patio Choice Yellow Cherry tomato produces up to 100 tomatoes on an eighteen-inch plant. Mascotte compact bush bean and Patio Pride peas are big producers suited to these small space gardens.

GET THE MOST out of your elevated garden by spacing plants just far enough apart to reach their mature size.

Extend your enjoyment and harvest with succession plantings. Fill vacant spaces left once a row or block of vegetables are harvested. Freshen up ornamental plantings by replacing weather worn flowers with healthy new selections. Add more planting mix along with wool pellets if needed.

Train vining plants onto trellises or other supports to save space and reduce the risk of disease. Dress them up by allowing trailing herbs and flowers to cascade over the edge of these planting beds.

Increasing growing success and reducing maintenance will make raised beds and elevated gardens a practical and productive addition to your gardening endeavors.

AAA's Memorial Day Travel Forecast: 60% More Travelers Than Last Year

AAA Travel expects a significant rebound in the number of Americans planning to travel this Memorial Day holiday weekend. From May 27 through May 31, more than 37 million people are expected to travel 50 miles or more from home, an increase of 60% from last year when only 23 million traveled.

Massachusetts will be well represented on the roads and in the skies this holiday. More than 900,000 Bay State residents plan to travel, a significant jump from the 561,000 who traveled a year ago. Of that total, 842,000 plan to travel by car, well above the 551,000 who drove in 2020.

The expected strong increase in demand from last year's holiday, which fell during the early phase of the pandemic, still represents 13%—or nearly 6 million—fewer travelers than in 2019. AAA urges those who choose to travel this year to exercise caution and take measures to protect themselves and others as the pandemic continues.

"As more people get the COVID-19 vaccine and consumer confidence grows, Americans are demonstrating a strong desire to travel this Memorial Day," said Mary Maguire, Director of Public and Government Affairs at AAA Northeast. "This pent-up demand will result in a significant increase in Memorial Day travel, which is a strong indicator for summer, though we must all remember to continue taking important safety precautions."

AAA notes that the actual number of holiday travelers could fluctuate as we approach Memorial Day. If there is an increase in reported cases attributed to new COVID-19 variants, some people may decide to stay home, while others may note the strong progress in vaccinations and make last-minute decisions to travel. AAA recommends working with a travel agent, who can help if you need to make any last-minute changes to travel plans as well as explore travel insurance options and help you plan a vacation that meets your needs and comfort-level this summer.

Another factor contributing to the expected increase in travel this holiday is the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) recently updated guidance that fully vaccinated people can travel domestically at low risk to themselves, while taking proper precautions. It's important to keep in mind that some local and state travel restrictions may remain in place, however. Travelers can refer to AAA's COVID-19 Travel Restrictions Map and TripTik.AAA.com for the latest information to help plan their trip.

For travelers who are not vaccinated but choose to travel, CDC recommends that you practice social distancing, wear a mask, wash your hands and get tested before and after travel. Whether you are vaccinated or not, remember masks are required on planes, buses, trains, and other forms of public transportation traveling into, within, or out of the United States and in U.S. transportation hubs such as airports and stations.

AAA Travel has noted significant recent increases in online traffic and bookings on AAA.com, particularly for hotels and car rentals, heading into the summer travel season. AAA booking data reveal that domestic travel and road trips remain the biggest drivers of travel recovery in the near term. Orlando and Las Vegas are top Memorial Day destinations this year, both for AAA Travel bookings and TripTik road trip searches. Other top destinations include the following:

Road Trips: Las Vegas, NV; Orlando, FL; Myrtle Beach, SC; Denver, CO; and Nashville, TN.

AAA Travel Bookings: Orlando, FL; Las Vegas, NV; Honolulu, HI; Anchorage, AK and Colorado Springs, CO.

Huge Increase in Air Travel Expected, but Most Memorial Day Travelers to Road Trip

With 34 million Americans planning Memorial Day road trips, auto travel is expected to increase 52% compared to 2020. Nearly 12 million more Americans will travel by car this holiday than in 2020, though this is still 9% less than in 2019. More than 9 in 10 Memorial Day travelers will drive to their destinations, as many Americans continue to substitute road trips for travel via planes, trains and other modes of transportation.

After a historically low year of air travel in 2020, this Memorial Day will see nearly 2.5 million Americans boarding airplanes, nearly six times more than last year (+577%). Still, 750,000 fewer people will take to the skies this holiday compared to 2019. AAA reminds air travelers that masks are required in all airports and on flights.

BBB Advice For Buying A Wedding Dress, Prom Dress, Or Other Special Occasion Dress

Shopping for the perfect dress is a crucial part of a wedding or prom. But like many purchases with a big price tag – and high stakes – there's a lot that can go wrong. Buying a wedding dress or prom dress can come with unexpected expenses, delayed orders, surprise policies, and unwanted stress in advance of a big event.

Follow this advice from the Better Business Bureau to ensure that dress shopping goes smoothly:

• Start shopping early: Experts recommend buying a wedding dress between six and nine months ahead of the big day. You don't need as much time for prom or another special occasion, but experts recommend starting a couple months ahead. Delivery and alterations can take time, and spring is busy season for seamstresses. The more time you have, the more you can comparison shop and the less rushed and stressed you'll feel.

• Be clear about your budget: Be upfront about your budget, so your sales person shows you dresses in your price range. You don't want to fall in love with a dress only to find that it is way over your budget.

• Factor in alterations: Dress alterations can be costly, so double-check policies in advance. Some dress shops offer alterations for a flat fee or cap expenses at a certain amount.

• Don't pay 100% upfront when buying a wedding dress: Most salons ask for a deposit of about 50% of the dress price for expensive gowns. You should not be pressured into paying the entire cost of a wedding dress upfront. Depending on where you find a prom dress, this will generally be less of an issue.

• Check the cancellation policy: Always check a store's cancellation policy for your specific order. Each contract is different, and custom orders may have a strict cancellation policy.

• Be clear about your schedule: Brides have complained to BBB that their dresses arrived too late for alterations. Be sure to be very clear about schedules and leave extra time to resolve any issues.

• Take your dress home: After your alterations are finished, promptly pick up your dress. You can't control what happens at the store where you found a prom dress or wedding dress – it might even go out of business – so the safest place for your dress is at your home (or the place you will be dressing on the big day).

• Want to rent? Do your homework: Renting a dress is an increasingly popular options for proms and other special events. Be sure to start early because popular styles and sizes will sell out. Also, check BBB.org before committing to a specific company. Check BBB: Research dress shops on BBB.org before making a purchase.

What to look for when buying a gown online

Some online sellers offer gowns that look like designer dresses for a fraction of the price. Buyers expect these dresses to be low-cost replicas, but BBB often hears that the dresses that arrive are ill-fitting and constructed from poor quality materials. If you've decided to buy a wedding dress or prom dress online, keep the following tips in mind:

• Beware of counterfeit gowns: Authorized retailers are the only stores allowed to sell a designer's gowns. Anyone else claiming to carry them is likely selling counterfeits. In fact, many dress designers do not sell their gowns online at all.

• Shopping for a deal? Be realistic: As much as a budget-conscious bride or party-goer may want to find a $5,000 dress for $350, it's probably not going to happen. Many designers don't allow their dresses to be discounted below a certain margin. In fact, an in-person sample sale, not online, may be a bride's best bet for finding a discounted gown.

• Double check delivery promises: It's vital that your dress arrives in time, so be sure the seller clearly states its typical delivery times.

• Understand the return policy: Review the guarantee, return, and refund policies before purchasing. Know if there is a way to return your dress (and how much it will cost) if you are not happy with it. Make sure there's a way to contact the company where you find the prom dress or wedding dress in case of problems. An absence of contact information on a website is a big red flag when shopping online.

• Be wary of overseas sellers: Buying wedding dresses or prom dresses from an international seller may seem like a good deal. However, U.S. and Canadian laws and consumer protections will be difficult, if not impossible, to enforce.

• Read BBB tips for shopping online: Although a wedding or prom dress may be an extra special purchase, much of the general advice for shopping online applies here, too.

Rep. Ayers Partners With Nonprofit For Caribbean Relief Efforts

State Rep. Bruce Ayers recently partnered with Authentic Caribbean Foundation, a national nonprofit, to help provide relief to the people of St. Vincent Island following a devastating natural disaster.

In April, St. Vincent was impacted by the eruption of La Soufrière volcano, which has made the region unrecognizable and has displaced nearly 20,000 residents. The initial eruption was followed by several more explosive events, making it an ongoing issue that continues to impact the island.

Andrew Sharpe, the chairman of the Authentic Caribbean Foundation, reached out to Rep. Ayers to request assistance. Since 1991, Ayers has run the Quincy Helping Hand program, an in-kind loan program where residents donate durable medical equipment. Ayers stores the items and donates them to people in need, free of charge.

In collaboration with Authentic Caribbean, Ayers and Helping Hand donated a truckload of wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, canes, commodes, shower benches, and even hospital beds.

The Red Cross has identified people with disabilities as part of the group most in need of relief assistance.

"Working together, and thanks to the generosity of people in Quincy, Randolph, and across the south shore, we've been able to donate these important items that will assist in recovery efforts," Ayers said. "The people of St. Vincent are in need of a helping hand, and that's what we're here for."

Based in Boston with strong ties to Randolph, Authentic Caribbean is a national organization committed to supporting Caribbean communities throughout the United States and globally. As a non-profit operating since 2012, Authentic Caribbean forms partnerships with officials like Ayers to assist Caribbean children and families.

"I'm grateful to Authentic Caribbean for reaching out, and for the opportunity to partner with them once again," Ayers said. "They do important work, and are an asset to my district and to Afro-Caribbean people across the world."

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO and SUZIE FALCO

One-Pan Saucy Fish With Peas

By MARIE

Here is a great tasty and simple way to prepare fish and for those of us who like tomato sauce today's recipe will please you very much. Plus, it is all made in one pan.

RECIPE

- 1 large or two medium pieces of had-dock or cod
- 1 eight ounce can of tomatoes crushed (You can also use a jar of marinara)
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon fresh parsley, chopped
- 2 cloves of garlic chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup of peas frozen or canned

In a large skillet heat up the olive oil and add the chopped garlic.

Then add tomato sauce, fresh parsley, salt and pepper and cover and cook for 10 minutes.

Now add the fish very gently. Turn down heat to medium to low and cook covered for 10 more minutes then turn fish very gently to the other side if you can. If the fish breaks up a bit don't worry about it.

Cook uncovered for 10 minutes until fish is done.

Add peas, cook until well blended. Sprinkle Parmesan or Romano Cheese on top if you like.

Serve with crusty French or Italian bread.

Edamame Hummus

By SUSIE

This is a delicious recipe made with edamame. Edamame is versatile and very mild tasting. It is packed with protein and fiber as well. Make sure you purchase the 12 oz frozen bag of the organic variety. This is a great appetizer to bring to a spring/summer shindig!

INGREDIENTS

- 1 12 Oz bag of edamame, cooked and cooled according to package directions.
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 garlic clove minced

- 1/2 cup parsley chopped
- 1 tablespoon sweet white miso (available everywhere now, in refrigerated section of supermarket next to tofu)
- 1 tsp red chili paste
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 tsp sea salt
- 1/4 tsp pepper
- 5 tablespoons olive oil

Simply mix all in a high speed blender, vitamix, or ninja until creamy and smooth. That's it! Serve with crackers, chips, or vegetables.

Will Applying For SS Disability Hurt SS Retirement Benefit?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

National Social Security Advisor

At the AMAC Foundation, The Non-Profit Arm Of the Association of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: My husband turns 65 later this month. He has started having health issues - so much so that we are thinking about talking to his doctor about Social Security Disability. How would this affect him in applying for his Social Security benefits? Should we exhaust disability efforts before applying for his retirement benefits? Signed: Concerned Wife

Dear Concerned Wife: In order to qualify for SS Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits, your husband's disability must be considered total and must be expected to last for at least one year. And that will need to be substantiated by medical evidence from his doctor. So, having a discussion with his doctor is the right first step.

Since SSDI benefits are based upon your husband's full retirement age (FRA) benefit amount, if he is awarded SS disability it would have no effect on his FRA benefit amount. In fact, if he is awarded SSDI benefits, they will automatically convert to his regular SS retirement benefit (at the same amount) when he reaches his FRA. SSDI benefits are replaced by SS retirement benefits once FRA is attained.

So, should your husband exhaust disability efforts before applying for his SS retirement benefit? Provided that his doctor will support that he is totally disabled and expected to remain so for at least a year, your husband should apply for SSDI online at www.ssa.gov/applyfordisability. This will establish a base date which will be used to establish a disability onset date, which is what his SSDI benefit will be based upon if later awarded. You should be aware that it takes several months to receive an initial SSDI determination, and that about 2/3rds of all SSDI applications are denied. But there is an appeals process in place which can be used in the event of an initial denial and if he believes that is an unfair decision.

It is also possible for your husband to claim his personal early SS retirement benefit at the same time he applies for SSDI, so he can get some early SS income flowing while his SSDI application is being considered. Then, if his SSDI is later awarded, his smaller SS retirement benefit (reduced for claiming before his FRA) will be replaced by his higher SSDI benefit, and his higher SSDI amount will automatically become his SS retirement amount when he reaches his FRA. However, if your husband's SSDI is not awarded, his reduced SS retirement benefit will be his permanent benefit amount (except, of course, for annual Cost of Living Adjustments).

NeighborWorks Housing Solutions Holds First Ever Virtual Open House

NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, the leading housing service provider in southeastern Massachusetts, held its first ever Virtual Open House April 29.

During the event, participants learned how NeighborWorks Housing Solutions has continued to advance its mission to provide housing resources and education during the pandemic through new housing for veterans, families and those with disabilities, homelessness prevention and increased services to vulnerable populations.

The 30-minute Virtual Open House was hosted by Robert Corley, CEO of NeighborWorks Housing Solutions. He highlighted three major construction projects that were started before the pandemic struck and have been moving forward despite the closures and shut-downs: 48 units of workforce apartments in Brockton, with ground floor commercial space, expected to open in late June; a new five-room home for adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities in Quincy, which opened last October; and eight studio apartments for formerly homeless veterans in Marshfield, expected to open later in 2021.

Corley also shared how the organization has increased all of their services to those living in their properties. This has included providing emergency food, additional cleaning services, and support to make sure people were able to stay safe, healthy, and at home.

The event also featured "chat-bar" trivia and hosted a prize give-away featuring local restaurant gift cards, donated by the NHS board and staff members. Additionally, Peter Brown of Tiny & Sons Auto Glass sponsored a visit by Smiles by the Mile Ice Cream Truck to one lucky attendee chosen at random, as well as to some NHS family properties. NHS staff members also read a few of the many thank you letters received over the past few months from RAFT (rental assistance) recipients.

"The past year has been incredibly challenging for all of us, and we have had to make major adjustments to how we work, learn, and socialize, including making equity a day-to-day priority, resulting in settings that are inclusive, safe, and welcoming for all," said Corley.

"A year ago, we saw the beginning of what we knew would be a tremendous rental crisis in our area," Corley continued. "During the fall and winter months, our team was managing more than 1,000 calls per week on our rental assistance hotline. NHS is now providing more than $1 million a week in financial support to households through our rental assistance program.

"We would have never been able to make it through this very challenging time without the help of our partners. During the past 12 months, we have been able to build stronger relationships, and strengthen our partnerships at all levels through our funders and supporters, public officials, and local towns. We all came together to increase our support to those in our community in crisis. Because of these key relationships, we were able to keep our projects and our core programs moving forward, and without them, we would have seen a drastically different outcome for the people we serve. We are so grateful for their support."

Walker, QARI Team Up To Expand Mental Health Services On The South Shore

Walker Therapeutic & Educational Programs and Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) announce an important partnership to expand access to mental health services - featuring multi-lingual and multi-cultural support - to Asian immigrants and their families in Quincy and the greater South Shore area.

The initiative answers a growing demand for mental health services during the coronavirus pandemic and supports an Asian-American community that has been a target of discriminatory attacks.

It has been well documented in numerous studies that Asian-Americans are less likely than other racial groups to seek mental health treatment—a third as likely as white Americans according to one study. This is due to a variety of reasons including stigma, cultural beliefs, and a dearth of Asian clinicians. For Asian immigrants, language barriers and difficulty navigating the health care system can also be obstacles.

"We are thrilled to partner with QARI because of their deep ties to the community and their commitment to ensuring that gaps in services for its members are addressed," said Walker President and CEO Gene Takahashi. "Together, we will be able to provide mental health counseling and other wellness services in locations that are meaningful and comfortable to them, including their homes, local schools, and community centers."

Racist violence and discrimination against Asian-Americans have surged across the country since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic. According to data released in February, the national organization Stop AAPI [Asian American Pacific Islanders] Hate received 2,808 reports of anti-Asian discrimination between March 19 and December 31, 2020, including 67 in Massachusetts.

"This is important for people in Quincy where more than 30% of the city identifies as Asian, the highest per capita in Massachusetts," said QARI President and CEO Philip Chong. "COVID-19 and the wave of increased anti-Asian violence has only magnified the stress and fear within the community and highlighted the need for mental health services to be more accessible and creative, including through telehealth, to help break the stigma and address health inequity. We are pleased to partner with Walker to ensure that Asian and immigrant families in our community have access to the culturally and linguistically appropriate support they need right now."

Founded in Needham in 1961, Walker provides comprehensive, highly therapeutic, academic and mental health services for children, youth and families across Eastern Massachusetts.

The agencies' aim is to simplify the process for QARI clients to access individual, group, and family therapy, as well as other community-based clinical services; provide training to QARI staff in identifying signs of mental health issues; offer mental health counseling at two of QARI's Quincy locations; and provide a series of workshops at Quincy Public Schools (QPS) for immigrant parents and activity-based therapeutic groups for their children related to helping youth cope with stress, anxiety, peer pressure and other issues.

These QPS programs will be offered this summer in accordance with guidelines for maintaining physical safety.

"Our long-term goal is to secure additional funding to not only expand the school-based programs throughout the year, but also to replicate these vital services to other populations, while addressing the underrepresentation of Asian and other cultural minorities in the clinical workforce," said Takahashi, adding people who are interested in funding these initiatives can contact Walker or QARI directly.

Communities Of Care

By PATRICK McDERMOTT, Norfolk County Sheriff

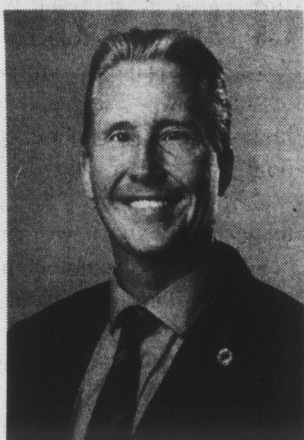

Every month has its fair share of holidays and observances, and May is no exception. But one of the things that sets May apart from other months is the number of days dedicated to honoring those whose job it is to keep all of us safe and thriving. Whether it's National Correctional Officers Week (May 2-8), International Firefighters Day (May 4), National Teacher Day (May 4), National Nurses Day (May 6), Mother's Day (May 9), National Police Week (May 9-15), National EMS Week (May 16-22), or Memorial Day (May 31), May is full of days to recognize the hard work and sacrifice of those who put the needs of others first in order to make us safer.

As Sheriff, my top priority is the public safety of each and every person in Norfolk County, but I know that the Sheriff's Office cannot ensure this on its own. This is why the types of professionals honored this month, whether correctional officers, nurses, teachers, firefighters, police, or emergency medical service personnel, are all part of a vital tapestry of public service providers keeping us safe, informed, and healthy.

Indeed, at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office alone, we make use of all of these professionals. Correctional officers keep the public and those in our custody safe. Our top-notch medical and health services team administers much-needed medical care and educates offenders about making good decisions related to their health. And our programming and educational services are taught by educators from a wide variety of personal and professional backgrounds, ensuring that offenders have the skills necessary to make good decisions when they're released from our custody.

In short, this is what the "care" in "care and custody of offenders" means at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office. Many people are familiar with the "custody" part of that charge, but without the care that we provide, true rehabilitation would be impossible.

Indeed, I see "care" as extending to the whole of

PATRICK McDERMOTT

Norfolk County. This is why we provide free public services, from our well-regarded senior programming that helps seniors feel safe and live independently to our comprehensive youth programming that teaches youth how to make good decisions and identify risks. It's why we run the Youth Leadership Academies (in Braintree, but also being piloted this year in Franklin) to give young residents an opportunity to take risks and develop leadership skills in a safe, controlled environment. And it's why I am seeking out opportunities to partner with nonprofits, community-led organizations, and unions to make sure that everyone has access to the kinds of support networks they need to live and thrive in Norfolk County. As Sheriff, I want to make sure that everyone feels safe and secure – not just safe during a time of crisis, but the feeling of security that comes with being able to envision a productive future.

Part of imagining that future is knowing that there are those in our communities committed to helping make it a reality. As we approach the end of May, I hope you join me in taking a moment to consider the impact of public service employees have on you. Whether it's the teachers who encourage a passion that develops into a career, the nurses who administer care when you need it the most, the correctional officers, firefighters, police officers, and EMS personnel who are prepared for any emergency, or service members who risk their lives to defend us, we owe a great debt of gratitude to those who have dedicated their lives to making our lives better.

QC Student Dan Harris Receives CMTI's Daniel Farquharson Scholarship

Quincy College President Rick DeCristofaro, Ms. Gina Farquharson along with the leadership of the Comprehensive Medical Teaching Institute (CMTI), and members of the Quincy Credit Union, recently presented a $1,000 scholarship in memory of Daniel Farquharson.

The recipient of the award, Dan Harris, is a current student in the paramedic program.

The scholarship is in memory of Daniel Farquharson who unfortunately passed away at a young age from melanoma. Dan was a certified EMT/Paramedic and graduate of CMTI who excelled in his field. His wife Gina Farquharson, addressed those in attendance via ZOOM from Florida where she resides.

"My husband Dan was very proud to be an EMT/Paramedic and lived every day to assist and help others," Mrs. Farquharson said.

"Even as melanoma became part of our lives, Dan never complained, continued to train and work while fighting the disease. Today's presentation to Dan Harris is a testament to Dan's passion and generosity to assist others getting into the same field. I congratulate Dan Harris and his family and wish him the very best in his career."

Keith Wilson, chief operating officer at CMTI, remembered his friend Dan fondly.

"Dan was the very definition of a true professional and we at CMTI miss him tremendously. I had the pleasure of working with Dan and became friends. Dan would be very happy to know he is being memorialized through this scholarship in his name given to an outstanding student like Dan Harris," Wilson said.

Dan Harris, a Quincy resident, attended the ceremony with his young daughter Charlotte and wife Amanda to accept the scholarship. Dan, a member of Paramedic Class #17, was selected for the scholarship for his overall academic achievement in the program. He was also elected as class president. Dan has recently joined the CMTI team as a CPR and EMT instructor. Once certified as a Paramedic he hopes to secure a position as a Firefighter/Paramedic.

Julia Boutchie, branch manager, and Kellie Gillis, both of the Quincy Credit Union, attended the ceremony to present the $1000 scholarship to Dan Harris.

"I am amazed at the continued services and training by CMTI to our students here at Quincy College. We are in a period of growth and are now expanding the EMT and Paramedic programs to our campus in Plymouth," DeCristofaro said. "I want to thank Gina not only for her support of Dan Harris today in her husband Dan's memory, but for the hope they are giving to each and every student enrolled in CMTI's programs, that they will one day be able to emulate Dan Farquharson's service and dedication to the community."

YUANYUAN MA

VICTORIA SHEN

Two Quincy Residents CPA Scholarship Recipients

The Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants (MSCPA) announces Yuanyuan Ma and Victoria Shen of Quincy were awarded scholarships from the MSCPA's Educational Foundation's 2021 Scholarship Program.

Yuanyuan Ma, a student at UMass Boston, will receive the MSCPA Alliance Scholarship.

Victoria Shen, a student at Babson College, will receive the Barbara M. Iannoni Scholarship.

Thirty-two students will be presented with their awards at the Virtual MSCPA Scholarship Award Ceremony and Reception on June 9.

"The Society is honored to support these remarkable students who are the next generation of CPAs," said Amy Pitter, president and CEO of the MSCPA. "Becoming a CPA opens up endless opportunities in a variety of fields, and we couldn't be prouder to guide them along their journey while advancing the future of the profession."

Scholarships are funded 100% through donations to the MSCPA's Educational Foundation. This year, the MSCPA presented $145,500 in scholarships to students. The mission of the MSCPA's Educational Foundation is to inspire and support the next generation of CPAs in Massachusetts. Since the program's inception in 2006, the Educational Foundation has awarded over 300 scholarships to aspiring CPAs, ranging from $2,500 - $10,000 and totaling more than over $1,500,000. MSCPA scholarships are available for both undergraduate and graduate accounting students who are attending a college or university in Massachusetts or attending a college or university out-of-state with a permanent residence in Massachusetts. Scholarship funds are issued directly to the students and can be used for tuition, books, interviewing expenses or other needs.

reserve of Chromebooks available. The district has also hired a member of the IT staff whose sole job is to manage the Chromebooks who will make sure they are ready to go for next year after students return them at the end of this year.

"One of the biggest areas of weakness was the delay in receiving Chromebooks," Mulvey said. "Our biggest obstacle last year won't be an obstacle this year. We will have plenty of Chromebooks available in the event we do have to go remote."

"I hope that doesn't happen, but it is a possibility and we will be prepared for it."

The district surveyed parents and teachers about the remote learning experience this month, Mulvey noted. A presentation on the results of those surveys was planned for a subcommittee meeting on Wednesday.

Committee Vice Chairperson Kathryn Hubley asked if the district could move to remote learning for snow days rather than cancelling classes and adding a new day to the end of the school year.

"I know the commissioner in the past had said we couldn't use blizzard bags or stuff like that and that wasn't going to be approved going forward, but now that we have remote in place would there be any difference?" Hubley said.

Mulvey said that would be up to the School Committee to determine and would also need to be negotiated with the various unions representing school employees. The district has had half-day remote days for snow days this year, Mulvey added, giving students the chance to go out and play in the snow after having class in the morning.

"I don't know if that is something this body would like us to continue with moving forward or if we would like to go back to the old model," he said.

Another possibility Mulvey suggested was cancelling classes during the first three or so snow days of the year and then having remote classes on any subsequent snow days. That could be helpful for years like 2014-15, when the district had 11 snow days amid a record-breaking winter.

Committee member Frank Santoro said the district should look at ways to incorporate virtual learning into the classroom.

"I think it is an important aspect of learning in the future and something that we can build upon. Teachers have created all these virtual lessons now - they have a huge library and experience doing it," Santoro said.

"At some point, I'd like to hear about what we can continue to do remotely in the classroom that would be beneficial to our kids."

Committee member Douglas Gutro made to a motion, which was unanimously approved, to have the superintendent discuss "COVID keepers" - changes implemented this year during the pandemic that could be kept in the future - during an upcoming meeting.

"I'm not suggesting you be wedded to it, but these are a lot of different areas that the school department has the discretion to consider and then maybe you could lay out the parameters where the union would have to get involved or anything that might elevate up to the School Committee for a policy decision," Gutro said.

One change that will be kept next year is having early release days on Wednesdays, rather than Tuesdays. The committee approved keeping early release days on Wednesdays when it approved the school calendar for next year during its May 5 meeting.

Early College High School Could Start Next Year

English composition. A math course is not planned for the upcoming school year, Shaw said, but could be added in the future depending on students' needs.

Larry Taglieri, the principal at Quincy High, said an information session on the program for families will be held virtually on June 1. The deadline for students to apply for the program is June 11. He said applications for the program would be similar to college applications, including an essay.

"Not wanting to make the application a hurdle for our students and our families, we've already spoken about the possibility of doing live interviews with some kids that might need it," Taglieri added.

"There will be assistance for our families as well. We understand that there may be language barriers and translations will be available for all."

Members of the School Committee welcomed the new program but had questions and concerns about it as well.

Emily Lebo called it a "great opportunity for the population that has been identified," but said she was disappointed the committee had not been told about the program sooner considering planning for it began last fall.

"I'm very disappointed it wasn't brought to us sooner than now. It's been in the works since the fall of 2020," Lebo said. "That's a disappointment."

Lebo also asked what would happen once the initial grant funding expires.

"It is worth the cost, but we have to know there is a cost," she said.

Cassidy, the administrator at Quincy College, said she was hopeful State Street would continue to fund the program after the first three years if it proves to be successful. There are other foundations that fund similar programs in other communities, she added.

Mayor Thomas Koch, the chairperson of the School Committee, said he would find a way to fund the program if it proves to be successful.

"We have a three-year commitment. We will find out if this thing is successful," he said. "If it works, we will find the money to continue it. If we find it didn't work out for whatever reason, then we move on and we try to find some other things."

Courtney Perdios asked if the program could be delayed a year. She called the present timeline "aggressive" because students have ten days from the information session on June 1 to complete the application and because teachers will have to prepare for the program after dealing with the pandemic over the past year.

"It is really, really aggressive, which makes me uncomfortable," Perdios said.

Koch said the city would lose the grant funding if the program does not begin next year.

"I can tell you, we will not get this grant if we don't take advantage of it this year," he said. "I know what was involved in getting this grant, and I can't get into a lot of the detail on that publicly, but a lot of people went to bat, big time, to make it happen for Quincy over other applicants."

Paul Bregoli said it might not be fair for the new guidance counsellors hired to work with the Early College High School students to be assigned fewer students than their counterparts already working in the schools.

"We're talking about a guidance counsellor who has a caseload of 150 max... how do we square that with guidance counsellors who are carrying a load of 300 kids and saying that is fair?" Bregoli said. "I would be resentful of that if I were a staff member."

Koch said the guidance counsellors working with the program's students would have a more intense caseload because not all students see their guidance counsellor regularly.

"I was never in a guidance counsellor's office in my three years at North. Not everybody is necessarily in tune with a guidance counsellor, for various reasons," Koch said.

"The new guidance counsellor under this proposal arguably has a lesser caseload; however, I would suggest this could be a more intense caseload."

The mayor said the new program would help level the playing field and provide new opportunities for students.

"The pandemic has been one issue this year. We have all heard and talked about the social justice issues," he said. "This is another opportunity to level the playing field - to give kids an opportunity they might not otherwise have."

O'Donnell Discusses How To Record A Land Document

Norfolk County Registrar of Deeds William P. O'Donnell is reminding residents that even during the coronavirus pandemic, the Registry process and operations to record land documents is designed to make it as easy and seamless as possible.

"Whether the document in question is a deed, mortgage, homestead, mortgage discharge or any other type of land document, Registry staff have been trained to record the documents in as expeditious and accurate a manner as possible," O'Donnell said.

"As the depository of over 8 million land documents, there are certain basic steps that need to be followed when submitting a land document for recording," O'Donnell continued. "First and foremost, the document needs to be associated with one of the 28 communities comprising Norfolk County. In addition, the document must be an original; we will not record photo copies or documents submitted via fax. Please note in many cases, land documents require signatures be notarized before they are recorded."

"It should also be noted that the Registry does not draft land documents. The Registry of Deeds is in the business of recording land documents only. If an individual is unsure if a drafted land document, particularly a deed, is in proper order, it may be prudent to have a lawyer familiar with real estate law review the document for its accuracy. A simple mistake on a deed for example could lead to a major problem."

Another important point to note is that there are various fees set by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts associated with the recording of land documents at the Registry. Recording fees vary depending on the specific land document type. The Registry's website, www.norfolkdeeds.org has a fee schedule that can be consulted for specific recording fee amounts. The Registry accepts checks made out to the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds. The Registry also accepts cash payment.

"Once you have a land document ready for recording and know the fee and type of payment," O'Donnell said. "You can then choose how to actually get the document delivered to the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Registry of Deeds building is currently closed to all members of the general public and real estate professionals alike. The options to get an original document and payment to the Registry of Deeds for recording are via regular mail, Federal Express, or placing the document and payment in a drop-off box located just outside the main entrance to our building located at 649 High St., Dedham. However, the Registry of Deeds building will be opening shortly probably with certain operational modifications."

In conclusion, O'Donnell said: "Our trained recording staff is more than happy to record your land documents. Land documents are recorded in an expeditious manner once they arrive here at the Registry. It should also be noted that institutional users such as lending institutions and law firms have the additional option to submit documents electronically via our two e-file vendors, Simplifile and ePN. Finally, if you have any questions about land documents in general, please call our Customer Service Center at 781-461-6101, Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m."

BBB: Beware Of Moving Scams

For countless Americans, the month of May signifies a major transition in their lives. Whether it is gearing up for warmer weather, graduating from high school or college, starting a new job or receiving that highly anticipated acceptance letter, May marks the beginning of the busiest time in the nation for moving. So much so, that the month was designated National Moving Month in 1997.

In 2020, 38% of all business profile views on BBB.org for moving companies occurred from May-August and was the third most-viewed industry in the nation for that year. Additionally, more than $230,000 was lost to fraudulent moving companies throughout the year, emphasizing the caution consumers should exercise when hiring a moving company. Of the 29.8 million people who moved last year, more than a quarter were between the ages of 20-29.

With the amount of moving activity during summer, the potential of being a victim of a moving scam also increases. There are several versions of moving scams reported to BBB every year, including:

- Consumers receive a quote and pay a deposit, but the "movers" never show up.

- The moving company provides a quote based on expected weight and, after loading the truck, they inform the consumer that the load is over the expected weight and an additional fee will have to be paid. Most of the time, the additional fee is significantly more expensive per pound, sometimes as much as double the original estimate.

- The most disruptive and difficult to anticipate moving scam is when everything appears to be going well. The movers provide an estimate, arrive on time and load your belongings on a truck. However, this is where the interaction turns disastrous. When the truck fails to arrive at its destination, either your belongings are simply gone or the company requires the consumer to pay an additional fee to have them delivered, holding the possessions hostage.

To avoid becoming a victim of a moving scam this National Moving Month and in the future, BBB recommends consumers follow these guidelines:

- Watch out for warning signs. When reviewing a

Squantum Intersections Dedicated To Deceased Veteran, FF

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors unanimously approved dedicating two Squantum intersections in memory of a late veteran of the Vietnam War and a late Quincy firefighter.

Councillors approved naming the intersection of Sonoma Road and Essex Street Daniel Dewey Square and the intersection of Standish Road and Bellevue Road Jonathan O'Driscoll Square during their meeting on May 17.

Dewey served in the United States Marines Corps during the Vietnam War, achieving the rank of sergeant, and was honorably discharged after being disabled in combat. He served multiple times as the commandant of the Caddy Detachment, was a member of the Nickerson Post, and was involved for many years with the Quincy Veterans' Council.

Dewey died in April 2020 at the age of 76.

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris, who introduced both orders on May 17, noted Dewey was a friend of Harris' predecessor, the late Brian McNamee.

"They were very close friends, and I think that if there is one time that my predecessor would be smiling at me, it would be doing this," Harris said.

"He was a person of great character, great opinion. He was dedicated to our veterans and he was just really, really a nice guy to sit next to...this honor is truly worthy of Dan Dewey."

Councillor Noel DiBona, the chairman of the council's veterans' services committee, said he was friends with Dewey and was saddened by his death.

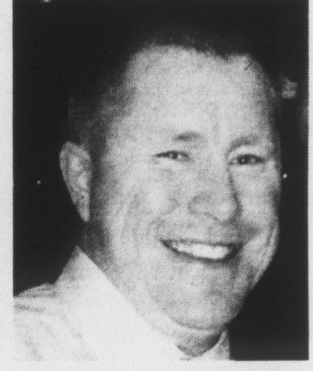

"I just want to thank Councillor Harris for bringing this about," DiBona said. "It is a great deed."

O'Driscoll, a 2004 graduate of North Quincy High School, enlisted in the United States Marines Corps in 2009 and achieved the rank of corporal. He later joined the Quincy Fire Department, where he served six years on Ladder 2 in Wollaston.

O'Driscoll died suddenly

DANIEL DEWEY

JONATHAN O'DRISCOLL

in October 2019 at the age of 34.

"He was so happy he was able to move back into Squantum. He became a firefighter, moved back into Squantum where he grew up, and he bought a house on Aberdeen Road," Harris said. "He lit up the room. He was a real great kid."

"Jonathan O'Driscoll had a great personality," DiBona added. "I used to see him all the time and he had a smile on his face. It was very sad, and I am happy to see Councillor Harris bringing this over to Standish and Bellevue."

Farmers Market To Set Up Near Municipal Garage

By SCOTT JACKSON

After operating at Pageant Field for the past several years, the Quincy Farmers Market will set up shop in Quincy Center on Fridays this season.

The Quincy Chamber of Commerce will also offer a second outdoor market – the Quincy Square Market – on Saturdays in the downtown.

The markets are scheduled to begin their season June 18 and continue through late October. The Quincy Farmers Market will run from 3 to 8 p.m. on Fridays and the Quincy Square Market will be open from noon to 8 p.m. on Saturdays. Both will be located in Kilroy Square, the name the city has given to the new public space located near the municipal parking garage on the former Hancock Lot.

The Board of License Commissioners granted special use permits for both markets during its meeting on May 18.

Tim Cahill, the president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, said his organization would be operating both markets this year. Cahill said 16C, a restaurant located on nearby Cottage Avenue, and Widomaker Brewing Company of Braintree will be providing limited food and beverages for the events.

The Chamber is in the process of securing vendors company's website, if there is no address or information about a mover's registration or insurance, it is a sign that it may not possess the proper policies to protect a consumer's belongings. Additionally, if the mover uses a rented truck or offers an estimate over the phone prior to conducting an on-site inspection, it may not be a legitimate business.

• Be wary of unusual requests. If a mover asks for a large down payment or full payment in advance, that may be an indication of a fraudulent business. If an individual's possessions are being held hostage for additional payment that was not agreed upon when the contract was signed, contact BBB or local law enforcement for help.

• Get everything in writing. When moving between states, check licensing with the U.S. Department of Transportation. An identification number is required of all interstate moving companies, issued by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) which can be verified at ProtectYourMove.gov. Make sure to carefully read the terms and conditions of the contract, as well as the limits of liability and any disclaimers. The pickup and expected delivery date should be easily identified.

• Keep an inventory of your belongings. Having an inventory sheet is one of the best ways to keep track of your possessions. BBB recommends consumers who are moving label the boxes their belongings are packed in and what is in each box. In general, movers are not liable for lost or damaged contents in customer-packed boxes unless there is provable negligence on the part of the mover. Taking photos of the contents prior to packing is a great way to prove if damages were incurred during the moving process.

• Ask questions. Do not be afraid to ask questions about anything you don't understand. If the moving company either can't or won't answer your questions, look for another company. Trust matters when hiring a moving company.

With the precautions introduced by the coronavirus pandemic, it is important to follow the guidelines put forth by the CDC when moving into a new residence, either as a family or individual.

Marli Caslli Named City Public Health Commissioner

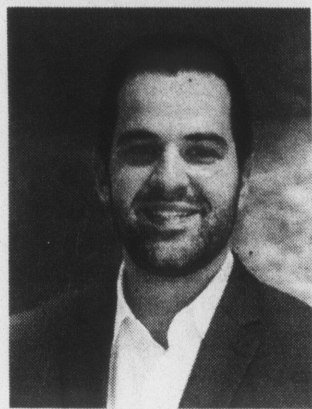

The office of Mayor Thomas Koch announces the mayor has promoted Marli Caslli, an Albanian immigrant and inspector with the Health Department since 2018, as the city's new Commissioner of Public Health.

Caslli, whose family came to Quincy from Albania in 2000, succeeds Ruth Jones as the City's Health Commissioner following her retirement from the position earlier this year. A 2013 graduate of Quincy High School, he holds two master's degrees, one in public health and another in regulatory affairs and health policy.

He also worked as a public health specialist for the Town of Brookline prior to joining the Quincy Health Department.

In a press release, Koch said:

"Marli has the knowledge, skill set, leadership qualities and a passion for our community that I believe will make him a great Commissioner. It's a terrific department; he has earned the respect and trust of his co-workers; and I expect great things from him.

"His personal and family story is truly extraordinary, and it reflects that great Quincy immigrant tradition."

In his prior post with the city, Caslli was largely responsible for leading the Health Department's rodent-control program over the last several years in addition to other public health-related matters. As public health commissioner he will oversee a department that handles various regulatory matters and the city's response to major communicable disease outbreaks such as the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Being sworn in will always be a memorable event not only for me but for my parents, who sacrificed so much after leaving their family and friends in Albania for the American Dream. My parents' constant sacrifices for almost 21 years in America have finally paid off," said Caslli in the press release. "In this next chapter of my life, I look forward to leading my team in developing and implementing innovative programs, providing educational resources for the community, and working with our dedicated city councilors to achieve the best outcomes for the city that means so much to me."

The health commissioner annual salary is $105,000 according to the current and 2022 FY budgets.

New HN Restaurant To Replace Louis Café

Off The Hook Bar And Grill, 1269 Sea St.

By SCOTT JACKSON

A new restaurant is slated to open on Sea Street in Houghs Neck at the former location of Louis Café.

The new eatery, known as Off the Hook Bar and Grill, received an all-alcohol beverages license, a common victualler license and an entertainment license during the May 18 meeting of the Board of Licensing Commissioners.

Louis Café was a mainstay in Houghs Neck for many years. The restaurant, located at 1269 Sea St., had remained closed since March 2018 because of damaged sustained during a nor'easter.

John Galligan, the owner of the former Louis Café, will serve as the manager of Off the Hook. Galligan's attorney, Robert Fleming, said the new restaurant will be similar to Louis.

"What he is offering there will be very similar. There might be a little bit of a change in some of the cuisine that he offers," Fleming said. "The atmosphere will be the same — really geared to families for the most part."

The restaurant will have seating for up to 109 patrons indoors and 44 patrons outdoors, Fleming said. Galligan, Fleming added, would comply with any COVID-19 regulations in place when the restaurant opens.

Galligan was hopeful the new restaurant will open in the near future.

"It's been a long-time coming and hopefully we can see the doors reopen very soon," he said.

Nine residents spoke during the license board hearing on the proposal. All voiced their support for the new restaurant.

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy said Galligan had been working hard to reopen the restaurant.

"Over the past few years, I have been down there quite often with John and he's been working hard to get off the hook," McCarthy said. "He's done a great job turning it around. It took some time and we had some issues, but with that back and a few other things we're doing down there, the end of the Neck will look better than ever."

Margaret Laforest, a former Ward 1 councillor, also spoke in favor of the proposal.

"As you know, Houghs Neck is quite the vibe and culture. It is the institutions like our local family restaurant and John's other business, Hough Many Scoops, that really helps propagate that culture down here," Laforest said.

"We are social, we want to get together, and are so excited to see COVID restrictions loosened so we will be able to do that and have a great, warm grand opening to support this new restaurant in our community."

Suzanne Condon, a Lenox Street resident, said the Houghs Neck community has felt "detached" without a restaurant to go to in the neighborhood.

"It's time to let John off the hook and to get back to business," Condon said. "We would all appreciate having some great food again."

The board granted the requests for the licenses in a series of unanimous votes.

Assistant City Clerk Joseph Newton said City Clerk Nicole Crispo, who was not in attendance for the meeting, understood how important the restaurant is for the Houghs Neck community.

"I had the opportunity to talk to Clerk Crispo this week and she knows how important Louis and now Off the Hook is to the neighborhood," Newton stated. "She just wanted to make sure she passed along her well wishes, John, on your reopening and for many years of success."

Farmers Market Near Municipal Garage

for both markets.

"We're reaching out to vendors, farmers and vendors, that we are in touch with right now," Cahill said. "We expect to have a fairly full house for most of the weekends."

The Chamber previously operated an outdoor market on Kilroy Square during the holiday season in 2019. The Chamber planned to do so again last year but had to cancel it because of the pandemic.

In other business on May 18, the Board of License Commissioners:

Granted a special-use permit and one-day liquor license for the annual Q Pride Day, which will be held June 6 at Pageant Field. The event is scheduled for noon to 4 p.m. that day and will include a beer truck, food, vendors and socially distanced activities.

Granted a special-use permit and one-day liquor license to Mel O'Drama for an event it will have at Safford Park for parents of its drama students on May 29 from noon to 2 p.m.

Granted a special-use permit and one-day liquor license to Heritage Sports Ventures and the Cannons Lacrosse Club for June 1. The Cannons are hosting four PLL scrimmages starting at 1 p.m. that day at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. Up to 2,500 fans are expected in attendance, according to club president Ian Frenette.

Granted a common victualler license to the Asian American Service Association for 550 Hancock St. The group will provide meals to go on the last Friday of each month from the kitchen at the Wollaston Lutheran Church.

Granted a motor II garage/repair license to O.C. Motor Sales and Repair for the location at 165 Hancock St. Clifford Orelus purchased the business, formerly RPM Motor Sales and Repairs, from its previous owner.

Bike Education Classes for Adults In June

The Mayor's Bicycle Commission and QuincyCycles are co-sponsoring bicycle education classes for adults in June.

If you have not yet learned to ride or want to improve your bike handling skills to be a more confident rider, you can do both this month. Classes will be held at the South Shore YMCA Parking lot, 79 Coddington St.

On Wednesday, June 9 at 6 p.m., League of American Bicyclists certified instructors will hold a class for adults and mature teens ages 16+ who want to learn to ride a bicycle. With a safe, easy, effective method, students will learn how to balance, pedal, start, stop, and steer a bike, as well as adjust a helmet for proper fit. Most people learn to ride in one session, but even if they don't, they'll leave equipped with an easy, low-stress way to teach themselves. The class is $15 (sliding scale if needed). Bikes and helmets are provided for participants to use. For more information and to register visit <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/learn-to-ride-a-bike-for-adults-tickets-156074566229>.

On Wednesday, June 23 at 6 p.m., League of American Bicyclists certified instructors will hold a class for adults and mature teens ages 16+ who want to improve their bike handling skills with guided practice and techniques. Participants will build the confidence that comes with knowing how to stay in control of your bike, use your bike's gears, signal, and anticipate hazards. The class is $15 (sliding scale if needed). Bring your own bike and helmet to this class. For more information and to register, visit <https://quincycles.com/event/bike-skills-101-for-adults/>.

Quincycles is a group of Quincy residents advocating for bicycle infrastructure on our city streets and promoting responsible bicycling as a means of transportation, recreation, and exercise in Quincy. More information about the group and this event can be found on their website at www.Quincycles.org or by email quincycles@gmail.com.

Downtown Construction Activities
Proposed work activities for the week of May 23rd, 2021

- The contractor at the Generals Bridge project will continue installing new handholes and electrical conduit for future plinth lighting and continue install new rebar cages along the existing concrete wall at the MBTA tracks along Thomas Burgin Parkway.
- At the McConville Way project the contractor will continue construction of the north and south streetscape aside the new roadway. The streetscape work includes the continued installation of granite planting curb, irrigation, trash receptacles, bike racks, concrete sidewalks, brick pavers, and roadway signage. At the future pocket parks, the contractor will continue installing park granite pavers, park shrubs, granite pavers at future water feature, and finish electrical within the fountain vault. At the corner of Hancock St and Cliveden St there remains a temporary pedestrian detour adjacent to the new concrete sidewalk work between the temporary fencing and jersey barriers. Pedestrians should use caution when using the temporary ramp from the sidewalk to the walkway area. This detour will be in place for the next few weeks.
- At the old 100 Parking Way site the contractor will finish constructing new utility stubs for future services and finish the backfilling area for future use. Temporary fencing remains in place around the old building area during construction. There remains no parking along McConville Way and Parkingway.

(The photo on the above left shows the install of the new granite pavers at the base of the future statue in the future pocket park and the above right photo shows contractors removing and disposing the roadway asphalt in preparation for new roadway pavement at Cliveden St.)

Rep. Chan Concerned Over MA Reopening Plans

By SCOTT JACKSON

Rep. Tackey Chan said he has some concerns about the governor's decision to lift all remaining COVID-19 restrictions this weekend and noted lawmakers will have work to do before the governor's state of emergency expires next month.

Gov. Charlie Baker previously announced that all remaining pandemic-related restrictions would be lifted effective this coming Saturday. The state will also lift its mask mandate at that point and will instead follow the latest guidance from the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which states fully vaccinated individuals no longer need to wear masks in most settings while those who are not yet vaccinated are urged to continue wearing them.

Chan, a Quincy Democrat, said he was concerned with the state and CDC's new guidance.

"I do have some concerns," Chan replied in an interview when asked about the reopening plans.

"I do not like how the Biden administration rolled this out, to be honest about it. The reason is because it seems like the Biden administration is trying to incentivize people to get vaccinated by saying you don't need to wear a mask. The problem is people who are not wearing masks are unlikely to get vaccinated also."

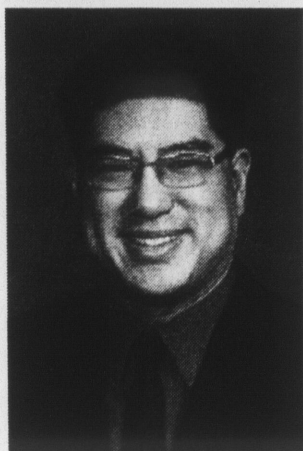

During the interview, Chan said he does not want to see the progress that state has made against the coronavirus be undone.

"I don't want to go backwards. We're better off inching forward than finding ourselves backwards," he said. "We did it already. It's chaos."

New England is doing well, he said, noting each state has partially vaccinated at least 50 percent of its residents. Other places have not fared so well, however.

"We're doing good in this region. It's what happens elsewhere that is the question," Chan said.

"My uncle lives in Canada; he's a doctor. Canada has been in meltdown for months now in the health system. Toronto has no beds — they've been shipping everybody out. My uncle tells me it is pretty damn scary. And they can't get vaccine because it is all in the U.S."

Chan, the House chairperson of the legislature's Joint Committee on Consumer Protection and Professional Licensure, said lawmakers will have to work quickly before the state of emergency expires on June 15.

"The governor's state of emergency ending on the 15th, there are a lot of special laws tied to that and I kind of wish he said he would keep the state of emergency while working with the legislature to codify things that we know work," Chan said.

"For example, I am the alcohol chairman, because consumer protection and professional licensure oversees alcohol. All summer long I have been dealing with the entire hospitality industry — hotels, restaurants, bars, hair salons... tour agencies. People don't realize exactly how big I deal with through my committee, not to mention all the licensed professions, how they are going to survive, and all those folks."

Last summer, Baker had issued an executive order that streamlined the local approval process for restaurants seeking to create or expand outdoor dining areas. That order is currently slated to expire 60 days after the state of emergency ends, meaning some restaurants might need to close or scale down their outdoor spaces in mid-August.

"We have outdoor dining 'til 60 days after the state of emergency ends, which puts us in August. The problem is that the way he wrote it in the order, it's not an approval process, it's just allowing outdoor dining," Chan said.

"They never consulted us, me, on how to do this properly. If he had made an executive order to allow authorities to continue authorizing and have the outdoor dining approved 'til the end of the year...then we wouldn't have a problem. Now, we need a legislative fix."

Chan said his committee is looking at ways to address the outdoor dining situation so restaurants who took advantage of the program could continue operating their outdoor spaces through the end of the year. The governor might also be able to address that issue via executive order, Chan added.

The state has also allowed restaurants to offer beer, wine and cocktails to go during the state of emergency. That provision is set to expire once the state of emergency ends on June 15; Chan said it is unlikely that it will be extended beyond that date.

"The second thing ending is takeout alcohol, which is ending on the date the state of emergency ends on June 15. The feedback we're getting from the [Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission], and I've talked to some of my colleagues, takeout alcohol lost interest rapidly once they started reopening dining. I don't think there is going to be an outcry for continuation of takeout alcohol by the restaurants," Chan said.

"The restaurant industry and the package store industry have been very cooperative throughout COVID. I don't see them disrupting each other's businesses post-COVID."

"I give a lot of credit to the hotels, the breweries, distillers, wholesalers and distributors, restaurants, bars, package stores," Chan added. "They have been working really well together through COVID, because it is all in or all out now, and normally you would have competing interests. Throughout COVID, the hospitality industries I work with have been working very well together."

"There is a 23 percent death rate for restaurants never coming back statewide. Boston is the economic driver, 50 percent of the state's GDP comes from one location, Boston, and they are still having challenges on everything, as you see on the news."

"Suburban community restaurants are doing better because they are not driven by outside traffic — it's a locally driven economy. But, if you are like Salem, Amherst, Holyoke, the Cape, Boston, Plymouth, you have these destination locations that relies on the outside coming in, tourist money. They are still going to be challenged moving forward."

As part of his emergency order, Baker had suspended the state's Open Meeting Law, allowing state agencies and municipalities to hold public meetings remotely. (The legislature is exempt from the Open Meeting Law.)

Officials are currently working to determine how public meetings will be held after the state of emergency expires.

"That conversation has already started," Chan replied when asked about public meetings.

"Various state agencies and municipalities are already starting to weigh in with us and the AG's office about what to do about continuation of virtual meetings when possible or a hybrid."

Chan said it is likely that meetings would take place in a hybrid model, with some participants meeting in person and others doing so remotely.

"I think there will be a push for some kind of hybrid model where you can have some remote members available, have remote testimony from the public available," Chan said.

"I think there is going to be some of that going on too, because we're not out of COVID. The Indian [variant] is starting to scare me — it's already in England, by the way. It didn't take long to get there...that was quick, so that means it is going to be here lickety-split."

High School Graduation Restrictions Lifted

By SCOTT JACKSON

The state has updated its guidance for outdoor graduations, meaning there will be no restrictions at next month's commencement ceremonies.

Quincy Supt. Kevin Mulvey said the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education released the new guidance for outdoor ceremonies on May 19, calling the change "great news."

"There is no longer any restrictions for capacity or distancing for outdoor ceremonies, so we will have a normal graduation for Quincy High and North Quincy High," Mulvey said at a School Committee meeting that evening.

Prior to the latest change in state guidelines, the district planned to limit graduating seniors to two guests. All guests would have been required to register in advance and would have been given assigned seats at the stadium.

Under the new rules, registration is no longer required, and seats will not be assigned.

Quincy High School's graduation is slated for Monday, June 7, and North Quincy High School's will take place the following day, Tuesday, June 8; both start at 6 p.m. The ceremonies will each take place at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

The superintendent told the committee no determination has been made about whether the ceremonies would be moved indoors or delayed to a later date in the event of inclement weather.

"I am hoping we just have good weather, but obviously we have to be prepared," he said. "We have a month and we are going to be working out those details."

"I think it is really important to have graduation on the date that is booked because families are coming into town and parties are being planned after graduation," Mulvey added. "Historically, we always try to find an alternative interior space...we have to work with the state and see if that is something that is possible."

The district is also planning a pair of outdoor senior proms, one for each high school, for later in June.

Quincy High's prom would be held Friday, June 18, with North Quincy High's on Saturday, June 19. Both would take place under a large tent at Merrymount Park in the parking lot near the World War II memorial.

Mulvey was hopeful the state guidelines would allow dancing at the proms.

"We're hoping that there will be distanced dance-ing," he said. "We hope so, because it will be like a 'Footloose' situation with no dancing."

The district also plans to hold post-prom events those nights, Mulvey said during the May 19 meeting. Those post-prom events could be held either outdoors or inside the school gymnasium, he said.

"These are all plans we are taking a look at and as soon as they are solidified obviously I will let you know and we will let the students and families know as well," the superintendent said.

The district will not be holding junior proms this year.

"Unfortunately, we are not planning to have the prom," Mulvey said. "We will make sure those juniors have a senior prom next year."

16 Candidates Pull Nomination Papers

By SCOTT JACKSON

Sixteen Quincy residents had pulled papers to seek office in this fall's municipal election as of early Tuesday, including a challenger in the race for at-large seats on the City Council.

The most recent resident to take out nomination papers is John Rododophele of Grenwood Road, who is running for an at-large seat on the council. Rododophele ran unsuccessfully for the Ward 5 seat in 2017 and ran for School Committee twice before that.

There are three at-large spots on the council. Incumbent Noel DiBona of Chickatabot Road has taken out papers to run for reelection. The other two incumbents, Nina Liang and Anne Mahoney, had yet to do so as of 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Another council race is looming in Ward 2, where three candidates have pulled papers: incumbent Anthony Andronico of Endicott Street as well as challengers Steven Perdios of Ruggles Street and Jorgette Theophilis of Norman Road. Andronico was appointed to the seat in January following the resignation of longtime councillor Brad Croall. Perdios ran unsuccessfully for the seat in 2011.

Four other incumbent councillors have pulled papers to seek reelection: Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy of Whitney Road;

Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain of Forbes Hill Road; Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan Jr. of Fenno Street; and Ward 6 Councillor William Harris of Ashworth Road.

The incumbent Ward 4 councillor, Brian Palmucci, had yet to pull papers as of Tuesday morning.

All three incumbent School Committee members whose seats are up for election this year have taken out nomination papers.

Quincy Art Association Open House June 13

The Quincy Art Association will host an open house Sunday, June 13 from 1 to 3 p.m., 24 High School Ave., Quincy. The public is invited to attend the open house which will be held outside on the lawn.

The event will feature plein air painting and a live model sketching demonstration.

Following the open house the Quincy Art Association will hold its annual meeting from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. For more information on making nominations visit www.quincyartma.org.

Woodward Students Create Colorful Sidewalk Art

Welcoming new students and their families to the Woodward School, current students paired up with new students in groups of three to transform squares of cement and asphalt into brightly colored works of art.

"Creativity is at the center of our middle school education," said Woodward Art Teacher Marguerite White. "This year middle school science focused on understanding earth's resources and eco-systems. We used that as the theme for the Sidewalk Chalk Art Contest."

Linda Harding, director of Enrollment, explained why next year's newly enrolled students and their families were invited to participate.

"For a girl starting in a new school, going through the entire summer thinking about making new friends and meeting new teachers can be an anxious time. Interacting with future classmates this spring, reduces that anxiety and begins to build community."

White added: "Our students are conscientious of the environment. Why not communicate that message through art by drawing connections of nature to the planet?"

Smiles by the Miles Ice Cream truck, also based in Quincy, stopped by the Sidewalk Chalk Art Contest to provide a sweet afternoon treat of ice cream bars.

Drawing #6 featuring both a dinosaur and a space capsule won first prize. All participating students took home a bag of sidewalk chalk. The event ended just as drops of rain fell from the clouds.

One parent remarked as she left, "I've never heard my daughter talk this much before with a student she just met."

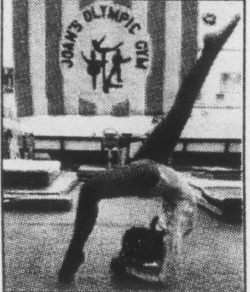

"I can't wait until next September!" exclaimed a new student as she walked hand-in-hand with a parent to her car.

A good time was had by all, everyone who participated in the contest left as a winner.

MEMORIAL DAY

"On this Memorial Day let us all express our gratitude and pride for those who have gone to war, fought for us and died.

Bravely going into combat putting their lives in harm's way
Fighting so that each of us can enjoy another free day.

Men and women fighting for the security for you and me
Marching to war proudly to keep our land the home of the free.
For each soldier that has served their country with dedication

MEMORIAL DAY

"...It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced.

It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Presidents Down Raiders In Boys' Volleyball, 3-1

By TOM JOYCE

The Quincy High boys' volleyball team didn't let a first set defeat define the day on Monday.

The Presidents faced off against the North Quincy High Raiders on the road Monday night and while their opponent took the first set, the team bounced back and took each of the next three. The Presidents won the match 3-1. The win put Quincy at 6-2 on the season and North Quincy fell to 4-4.

"We were playing with confidence I think and were much more disciplined on defense, being where we needed to be," Quincy head coach Jacqui Niosi said. "I think there were a lot of nerves at the beginning of the game. We were all over the place. I think the first time you play at this gym, it gets into your head because the ceiling is so low. And it's also the first time a lot of these kids had this matchup, so they're very excited and the nerves just took over a little bit in the beginning."

North Quincy got off to a hot start and it made the difference in the first set. The team went on a 4-0 run with sophomore outside hitter Liam Bailey serving and while things were competitive for much of the set--with the score tied a handful of times, including at 16 apiece -- North Quincy pulled away late. An ace from freshman Anthony Chiu put them up 20-17 and a point from Casimir Valencius extended their lead to four. Bailey had a spike that deflected off a Quincy defender for the game point, giving North Quincy a 25-22 win in the set.

The second set was also competitive, but it went in Quincy's favor.

Quincy took a 10-8 lead as Tony Le (12 kills, 24 assists) found some hardwood and tapped the ball to an undefended area. The team took a four-point lead, 14-10, on an ace from Christian Las (2 aces, 11 digs). A pair of kills from Jacob Zarges (6 aces, 19 kills) and a North Quincy hitting er-

North Quincy Baseball Extends Win Streak To 5 Games

By TOM JOYCE

Make that five wins in a row for the North Quincy High baseball team.

The Raiders have enjoyed their share of success this season, and extended their winning streak to five games on the road against the Hanover Hawks May 21. The Raiders got their bats going early and got a sharp complete game pitching performance out of senior captain Liam Hines. The result: a 5-2 victory. The win put their record at 5-2 on the season.

"Liam Hines wasn't good to start in those first two innings," North Quincy head coach Matt Edgerly said. "He left balls up and they made us pay for it with two runs, but from the third inning on he was dominant. He really closed the door for us. And defensively, our infield was fantastic for us like they've been all year. The outfield here is a tough place to play, it's wide open, but I thought our outfield did an excellent job keeping balls in front of them."

North Quincy got all of the runs they needed to win the game in the first inning. Hanover retired the first batter, but Zachary Taylor reached base with a line-drive single to left field. Johnny Lynch followed things up with another base hit to put runners on first and second. Hanover briefly recovered, striking out the next batter, but they wouldn't make it out of the inning unscathed. North Quincy put up three runs.

Alex Montero singled, knocking in Taylor and advancing Lynch to third base to make it a 1-0 game. After that, Vinny O'Leary loaded the bases by drawing a walk on a full count.

Jackson Murphy capitalized on the bases loaded opportunity. He ripped a line drive single that scored two runs and put O'Leary at third base. The next batter grounded into a fielder's choice to end the inning.

Hanover's offense had some early production, but little came after that. Each of the first three batters contributed to the team's only run of the inning and one of two runs they scored in the game.

The first two Hanover batters had back-to-back singles. The first came on a fly ball and the second on a line drive. The line drive single moved the initial runner to third base. Then Hanover scored on a sacrifice fly, moving the other runner to second base as well.

How did Hines respond to this? He struck out the final two batters of the inning, preventing Hanover from putting more runs on the board.

While Hanover scored another run in the second inning, Hines, who threw a complete game, limited their offensive production in the innings to follow. He allowed five hits and struck out nine batters in the winning effort.

Offensively, the Raiders had plenty of contributors in the win. They had eight hits. Taylor, Lynch, and Montero each had two hits apiece while O'Leary and Kyle Pritchard each walked twice. Taylor also had an RBI later on in the game, adding an insurance run.

The team's five game winning streak started on May 12 with a 7-2 win over Pembroke. The team made it two in a row with a 6-2 victory over Quincy May 14. Then last week, North Quincy won each of its three games. It started with a 2-1 win over Plymouth South on May 17. Then, North Quincy beat Scituate 8-4 on May 19. The final game of the week for the team was the 5-2 win over Hanover.

Edgerly said a lot had been going right for the team in that stretch.

"Our pitching has been fantastic all year," he said. "Our defense has been fantastic all year. Our focus game-to-game is being consistent defensively and on the mound but also making solid contact up the middle at the plate. We've been alright the last five games because of that."

The success comes after the team started the season 0-2 with a 3-2 loss to Scituate in its road opener on May 7 and a 5-0 loss to Hanover in its home opener on May 11.

The roster for the Raiders this season includes: senior pitcher/outfielder Brendan Hines (captain), junior pitcher/infielder/catcher

North Quincy Girls' Lacrosse Bows To Hanover

By TOM JOYCE

The North Quincy High girls' lacrosse team faced a tough opponent that had plenty of offensive success in the first quarter.

However, North Quincy outscored the other team after the first quarter and prevented their opponent from running away with the game. The Raiders hosted the Hanover Hawks at Creedon Field on May 22 and lost 15-6. This put their record at 3-4 on the season.

"I just told them that I was so proud of their effort overall," North Quincy head coach Marissa McGue said. "Their attitude and the way they played on the field. I think that's the best game of lacrosse they've played all year. They implemented all of the things we've worked on, so that was really nice to see."

"I am the most proud today of their attitude towards everything today and that's what I want to preach to them as athletes and young women to fight through adversity," she added.

Hanover put up 10 goals in the first quarter but in the final three quarters, North Quincy held them to five goals. Meanwhile, North Quincy scored six goals in those final three quarters, meaning they outscored their opponent 6-5 after the first quarter.

Hanover led the game 12-1 after putting up a pair of goals in the second quarter. North Quincy also had their first score of the game in it.

While Hanover led 11-0 early in the second quarter, a little more than midway through it, Alexandra Abrahamovich got North Quincy on the board. She scored her first of two goals of the day with 5:04 left in the first half. Hanover responded by putting up another goal just over two minutes later.

Hanover took its biggest lead of the day early in the second half. The team went up 13-1 less than one minute into the second half but from there, North Quincy spent much of the game narrowing that deficit.

From behind the net, Meg Lyons got the first goal of the second half for North Quincy with 7:29 remaining. She shot the ball and it bounced off the Hanover goalkeeper and into the back of the net for a goal. It was her second of two goals in the bout.

About a minute later, North Quincy scored again; this time the goal came from Abrahamovich after she rushed down the field to put one past the goalie.

This ended up being part of a 3-0 scoring run for North Quincy. Additionally, Melanie Chretien scored on a rush with 3:40 left in the third quarter to make the score 13-4. Hanover led 14-4 after three quarters of play because they added a goal with less than 30 seconds left in the third.

North Quincy outscored their opponent 2-1 in the final 12:30 to play, the length of a quarter in high school lacrosse this season.

Jamie McAleavy struck first for North Quincy with 11:06 remaining. About two-and-a-half minutes later, Hanover scored their only goal of the fourth quarter. However, just over three minutes later with about 5:30 left to play, Lyons netted her second goal of the game. It went over the Hanover goalkeeper and into the net.

McGue said that she got a "very good group effort" from her team against Hanover and that she was proud of all of their performances.

In the game prior to their Hanover matchup, North Quincy had their highest-scoring offensive effort of the season. They defeated Abington 15-3 May 20 on the road.

The roster for North Quincy this season includes: freshman midfielder Nina Smith, freshman midfielder ror helped the team to a 4-0 run later in the set to go up 20-12. While North Quincy pulled within one point, 24-23, on a block from Valencius, a hitting error from the team gave the final point of the set to Quincy.

After that, momentum was in Quincy's favor and they took each of the final two sets 25-18.

Quincy went ahead 14-13 on a kill from Las just over halfway into the third set. It was the start of an 8-2 run for the team that put them up 21-15. Zarges capped it off with a block for Quincy. A North Quincy hitting error with Quincy up 24-18 resulted in the final point of the set.

It took a comeback for Quincy to win the final set as North Quincy got off to a hot start. NQ took an early 9-4 lead capped off on an ace from Jeffery Tam. However, Quincy charged back with an 11-1 run to take a 15-10 lead. The team had three aces in that stretch: two from Zarges and one from Le that tipped the net.

Zarges capped off the set with a pair of kills.

For North Quincy, Anthony Chiu led the team with 10 kills while Bailey finished second with nine. Steve Dalla, a first-year volleyball player who excelled in basketball, had a team-high 11 assists while Chiu and Bailey had three aces and one block apiece.

"Anthony Chiu had his best game all season," North Quincy head coach Andrew Shaw said. "He came out shining and having that extra hitter opened up our offense to come out strong in the first set--and even in the second set. Unfortunately, some of the mistakes we weren't able to cover. We weren't quite ready for some of the tip shots and we had a little lack of communications after the first set we lost. It went a little bit downhill from there."

House Asian Caucus Planned To Meet With Governor

By SCOTT JACKSON

Members of the Massachusetts House Asian Caucus planned to meet with Gov. Charlie Baker this week to discuss systemic racism, Rep. Tackey Chan said in a recent interview.

The caucus planned to meet with the governor Monday, Chan, a Quincy Democrat, told The Sun.

"We have a meeting with the governor on Monday with the Asian caucus to talk about systemic racism issues," he said. "We have an agenda set out."

The caucus "did some good stuff" in the budget the House recently passed, Chan added, extending his thanks to House Speaker Ronald Mariano, a fellow Quincy Democrat, and members of the House Committee on Ways and Means.

One of the caucus's top priorities headed into this week's meeting is data disaggregation, Chan said.

"Our priorities right now is data disaggregation, which you have heard me talk about forever. We have more ethnic studies of different groups, as a policy. Equity on boards and commissions for people of color and women," Chan said.

"We're still debating about hate crimes, among ourselves in the caucus; still working on hate crimes and how to help people in domestic violence and human trafficking. We haven't come to a consensus on what we're looking for yet."

"We also got $300,000 in the budget for a study on Asian racism. Never has the state ever spent money on a study, and that is a substantial study. California spent $1.4 million, so this is substantial. We have a million bucks dedicated to cultural centers...they lost last season, they lost this season."

"We asked for money for the Asian-American commission, which is not a big problem. Then we want to talk about systemic racism. I gave him some primers."

One of those primers, Chan said, is an April poll conducted by Channel 7 News and Emerson College asking how serious a problem is systemic racism in Boston. Seventy-seven percent of Asian American residents said it is a very or somewhat serious problem, compared to 65 percent of Black residents, 64 percent of Hispanic residents, and 62 percent of white residents.

Chan said members of the Asian American community in Quincy feel the same way.

"We know there is racism. They may not know it is called systemic racism - we definitely know it is racism," Chan said.

"I mentioned this to the governor the last time I saw him. We have to fight to get in the line of people of color before people of color get to the table with white people."

Think about that statement for a second. I have to fight onto the people of color line, the POC line, before I even get to the table."

To address systemic racism, Chan said members of the community need to keep fighting for equity.

"You can't really put it behind you, you just have to keep fighting to get there," he said.

"I did a talk with North Quincy High Making Positive Change students...and they straight up asked me

DA Morrissey Singled Out For His Support Of Guard, Reserve

Norfolk County District Attorney Michael W. Morrissey recently received the 2020 Pro Patria Award recognizing his "outstanding service to the national defense" for his treatment of his employees in the Guard and Reserve.

It is the highest level award given by the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR), an agency of the Department of Defense.

According to Massachusetts ESGR chairperson Paul Zbikowski, the organization awards a Pro Patria award in each state each year to a private organization that employs more than 500, a private organization that employs fewer than 500, and a public sector employer who has "demonstrated the greatest support to Guard and Reserve employees through their leadership and practices."

Morrissey had previously been awarded the ESGR's "Above and Beyond" award and "Patriot Award," according to John Pelose, the area chairperson for the Massachusetts Committee and a Braintree resident. Both are pre-requisites for the organization's highest honor.

"Employers can strive to support the Guard members and Reservists who work for us, and give them the support they need, or employers can drag their feet," Morrissey said after receiving the award at the World War II Memorial near Colletta Field in Quincy. "My father was a reservist for years after his active duty in the US Army. I know what it means to those who serve and their families to have their jobs not only secure but supportive as they serve us. It is the right thing to do, and I hope other employers also see that."

Hemlock Woolly Adelgid: An Invasive Pest On The Rise

In spring, plants to emerge, flowers to bloom and trees leaf out. It's also when invasive pests emerge and start attacking trees.

One such invasive pest is on the rise in Quincy due to the mild winter. Hemlock woolly adelgid (HWA) is a serious pest that attacks hemlocks by sucking sap from needles and twigs.

Invasive species are the largest threat to native wildlife, ecosystems and, according to George Barth, ISA certified arborist at Hartney Greymont, a Davey company, "a considerable threat to our urban forests."

Due to the lack of natural competitors and predators, non-native species such as HWA increase in numbers and spread swiftly. Barth says the best approaches for dealing with HWA is early detection and rapid response.

How to Identify HWA

Adult female adelgids protect themselves and their eggs with "woolly" white filaments of wax. These look like cottony masses on the underside of hemlock needles and twigs.

According to Barth, heavy infestations resemble "a coating of snow."

Initially, hemlock needles are discolored and drop prematurely. As the infestation progresses, the tree loses vigor, and twigs and branches die back. If the infestation is severe and goes untreated, HWA may result in tree death.

Control and Management

To protect trees, horticultural oil should be applied by a professional in spring, summer, and fall. Soil injections of appropriate insecticides can provide protection throughout the season to help the tree rebound.

Barth says that once the adelgid population has been reduced fertilization is key. "We have seen enormous benefits from the use of Arbor Green PRO, a slow-release fertilizer, to help increase the hemlock's tolerance of environmental stress and help the tree rebound from damage."

Many cities have implemented control measures to help combat invasive infestations. As a homeowner, however, you are responsible for protecting your own trees from any invasive species.

Unfortunately, Barth says invasives are here to stay. "Our challenge is to recognize which invasives need to be managed and how to effectively manage them."

OBITUARIES

Pearl M. Barresi, 90

A funeral Mass for Pearl M. (McGauley) Barresi, 90, of Hingham, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday at the Divine Mercy Parish in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Barresi died peacefully at her home on May 21.

Born in Chelsea on July 15, 1930, she was the daughter of the late Walter and Pearl (Demings) McGauley. She attended local schools and graduated from Chelsea High School with the Class of 1948.

Mrs. Barresi was a loving mother and raised her family with devotion. After her children were grown, she entered the workforce as an administrative assistant with State Street. She loved her work and the relationships she built throughout the years. After 15 years of service, she retired in 2004.

In her spare time, Mrs. Barresi enjoyed playing cards, bowling, and going dancing. In later years, she became an active member at her residential community: Linden Ponds in Hingham. Mrs. Barresi was a committee member there as well as a member of the Linden

Ponds Choir. She also loved the time she spent with her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. Mrs. Barresi and her daughters often enjoyed going shopping and getting manicures and pedicures together.

Mrs. Barresi was loving, strong, hardworking, selfless, and supportive. Her life lessons and example are part of her legacy that continue through her family. She will be missed by all the lives she touched.

Pearl was the former wife of the late Vito A. Barresi. She was the devoted mother of Kathleen MacDonald and her husband Russell of Marshfield, Diane Brennan of Florida, Nancy Brosna-han and her husband Gerard of Weymouth, Donna Barresi and her late husband Stephen J. Green of Quincy and Vito J. Barresi of Quincy. Pearl was the loving grandmother of James Brennan and his wife Dee of Florida, Michael Brennan of Florida, Carolann Saenz of Florida, Christopher Brosnahan of Newton, Patrick Brosnahan of Middleboro and Sean Brosnahan of Braintree. She was the loving great grandmother of Sydney, Madison, Catalina and AJ, and the loving great-great grandmother of Elisabeth, all of Florida. Pearl was preceded in death by her siblings: Carolann Ogden and Evelyn Chaet. She is also survived by many loving nieces and nephews.

Following cremation, Mrs. Barresi will be interred privately in St. Mary's Cemetery, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, 501 St. Jude Place, Memphis, TN 38105.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Walker, and Theresa Messier. Loving "Uncle Hughie/Chewie" to many nieces, nephews, grand nieces and nephews, and 1 great grand nephew.

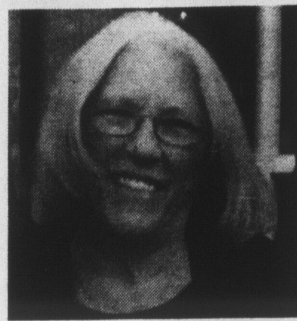

Special thanks to his nieces Kathleen Bernard and Lois Creeden who spent time with him during treatments when Anne was not able to. His family would also like to thank the staff at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, especially Dr. Anuji Patel, for all of their care, compassion, and expertise.

Interment at Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Memorial donations may be made to Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, P.O. Box 849168, Boston, MA 02284-9168 or a charity of your choice.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Janet L. Starsiak, 71

for many years at Quincy City Hospital.

When she became a mother, Mrs. Starsiak committed herself fully to the job. She choreographed talent shows, coached sport teams, and drove the back roads to all practices, games and activities across the state.

Later in life what Mrs. Starsiak loved doing most was spending time with her five grandchildren. Known as both Mimi and Tata, she was the biggest supporter and loudest cheerleader at all of her grandchildren's events.

A celebration of life for Janet L. (Bedugnis) Starsiak, age 71, of Quincy was held Monday in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mrs. Starsiak died May 17.

Born to Benjamin and Mary Bedugnis of Roslindale. Wife, and better half, of Richard Starsiak, her husband of 49 years. Dedicated and loving mother to Scott Starsiak of Weymouth, Jennifer Aufiero and her husband Matthew of Ellicott City, MD, and Rich Starsiak and his wife Jill of Templeton. Proud grandmother to Jake, Lilah, Maya, Emmett and Evie.

Mrs. Starsiak grew up in Roslindale, where she was proud to call herself the captain of cheerleading squad at Roslindale High School. She went on to attend Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing where she became a registered nurse and worked

When not spending time with family, Mrs. Starsiak enjoyed playing in her weekly bowling league at Olindy's with her best friend Karen Fay and even received the Perfect Attendance Award for the group.

Mrs. Starsiak leaves siblings Diane Cronin and her husband Kevin, Linda Verbisky and her husband Chuck, Robert Bedugnis and brother-in-law Michael Starsiak and his wife Irene. Her brother David predeceased her. She was the fun-loving aunt to her many nieces and nephews and Godmother of Lisa Cronin and Steven Fay.

Mrs. Starsiak was a champion of the people she loved. When people needed her, she was always there.

Interment at Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to For Kids Sake Foundation at forkidsakefoundation.org.

Rosina Aiello, 88

ROSINA AIELLO

A funeral Mass for Rosina (Maudente) Aiello, age 88, a longtime resident of Braintree, will be celebrated Friday at 10 a.m. in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Aiello died peacefully May 22, surrounded by her loving family.

She was born in Palermi, Italy, to the late Giuseppe and Christina (Giampa) Maudente. Raised and educated there, she immigrated to the United States at the age of fourteen with her mother, arriving in New York City. She lived in Boston's North End and Worcester for several years before moving to Braintree in 1968.

Mrs. Aiello and her late husband, Alfredo, were the founders of Alfredo Aiello Italian Foods, Inc. of Quincy.

She loved cooking and travelling and enjoyed trips to Italy to visit relatives and Rachel, Cara and her fiancé Andrew Stevenson, Ella, and Jack. Cherished great-grandmother of Isabel. She was predeceased by her sister, Assunta "Susie" Tripodi. Dear aunt of Maria Tripodi of Braintree, and Joseph Tripodi and his wife Lynne of Wakefield. Mrs. Aiello is also survived by many cousins and relatives both here and in Italy.

Visiting hours are 4 to 6 p.m. Thursday in the Sweetney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Entombment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Services are operating in accordance with current guidelines.

Memorial donations may be made to the Daughters of Mary Nazareth, c/o Mother Olga at Saint Joseph of Nazareth Convent, P.O. Box 690789, Quincy, MA 02269.

Brian A. Curley, 63

Brian A. Curley, 63, of Quincy, formerly a longtime resident of Dorchester Lower Mills, died suddenly on May 14.

Dear son of the late Paul F. and Rita F. Curley. Cherished brother of Paul F. Curley, Jr. of Quincy, Maureen Amaral and her husband Robert Amaral of Hingham, and Michelle Curley of Quincy and her late husband Larry W. Capen.

Mr. Curley was a proud graduate of Boston Technical High School, one of the city's elite exam schools.

Early in his automotive career, as the head mechanic and automotive manager for N.E.'s largest privately owned delivery service, the Ford Motor Company honored Mr. Curley by authorizing him to perform warranty repairs on their vehicles. Mr. Curley was one of the first non-dealership mechanics in the country to be granted this privilege.

He was very mechanically inclined and could fix just about anything. This led his father to give him the nickname MacGyver; a name which stuck with him throughout life.

Mr. Curley will be greatly missed by all who had the pleasure of knowing him.

Arrangements are private at the family's request.

Assisting the family is Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 650 Hancock St., Quincy.

Hugh M. Doherty

Hugh M. "Hughie" Doherty of Quincy died May 15.

Mr. Doherty was married to his wife Anne for 51 years and they loved spending time on their boat. He got his start fishing off of Gunrock with his uncles when he was young, went deep sea fishing with the Yankee Fleet, observing his friends set lobster traps, and just loved being on the water. He enjoyed tending to his vegetable garden and the homemade piccalilli Anne would make.

Mr. Doherty was a proud veteran of the United States Army. He was a member of the Nickerson Post in Squantum and worked for the commonwealth of Massachusetts DES for over 30 years and also worked on the New Haven Railroad as a brakeman for freight trains for over 10 years.

Mr. Doherty was a handy man and built a bird condo at his home for all of the neighborhood birds. He had a great sense of humor and was a friendly and easy going guy that liked to keep the peace. Kids were always drawn to him and he was known as the favorite uncle to many. Mr. Doherty will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Beloved husband of Anne Doherty of Quincy. Cherished brother of Elizabeth Pino of East Falmouth and the late Sarah Sloan, Thomas Doherty, Mary Regan, John Doherty, Kathleen how do we get equity. I'm like, you don't. This is a nation of immigrants. You just keep fighting for it. Every group that came to these shores had to fight for a seat at the table. The mentality is very natural - once you get the seat, why would you give it up?"

Being colorblind is not part of the solution, Chan said, recounting something a Randolph student of Black and Filipino descent said during a listening session.

"One of the kids in Randolph said it best...When you make us colorblind, we don't exist. You need to see our color," Chan said. "This is kind of part of systemic racism. It's about whether you are excluded, whether by active exclusion or exclusion by ignoring you."

"I think systemic racism people get wrong, because racism in your face is easy. I call you a racial slur, I come attack you - it's blatant, you can say. Systemic racism is different, because it is not the same for every person of color. Some are just excluded completely...others we just ignore you. There is a difference. One is affirmative and one is passive."

"My end of the world is passive. We don't exist and the model minority reinforces that - we all go to school, we're all smart, we have money. But, the data doesn't support that. It doesn't support any of that, and that is what makes us invisible."

The idea that Asian Americans are a model minority is an example of bias people have, Chan said.

"I do think that people do come up with certain biases they don't even realize they are doing. I don't fault anyone for that, because how did you know if I didn't point it out? Like the model minority thing, if I don't put it out to you, you don't think about it," he said.

"High school graduation is coming. You look at all these kids that are people of color who are at the top of list, but what about everybody else at the bottom? No one talks about it. 'Oh, the class valedictorian is Vietnamese or Chinese.' That's great - what about all those ones at the bottom of the list? They are 40 percent of the class. I don't see them taking all 40 percent of the top slots. We are like everyone else.

"Come to Germantown, it's still more than 50 percent people of color, a lot of Chinese and Vietnamese. You go to O'Brien Towers, it is 50 percent Chinese seniors living in subsidized housing. That kills off the multi-generational house myth. You have multi-generational houses out of necessity, not necessarily out of culture."

Chan said it is also important for people not to treat the Asian American community as a monolithic group.

"We are a very diverse group. We are not monolithic. Even Chinese are non-monolithic...there are all kinds of different languages, we all come from different provinces in China. You have more Vietnamese and Indians here than ever, and Indians and Vietnamese and Chinese aren't the same, which is why we have the data disaggregation," he said.

"I always use food as an example, because it seems like people understand that best. You know what sushi is, right - Japanese food. If I say samosas, it's Indian food. But how come you can't do that with people like you do that with food? If I say chow mein, you know it is Chinese. If I say pad thai, you know it is Thai food."

In recognition of Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage month, the Massachusetts House Asian Caucus launched the Shop AAPI Month initiative. Chan and Mariano, the House speaker, visited several Asian-owned businesses in Quincy last week in support of the initiative.

Chan said that Asian-owned businesses have suffered amid the pandemic and also noted hate crimes against the AAPI community have increased nationwide.

"Even though COVID-19 has hit this community the hardest, nobody did anything for us. Chinatown lost 90 percent of the business over night. Local businesses here started facing racism issues right away in January, long before the real bad violence started," Chan said.

"The violence started in February nationally. This

OBITUARY

Lawrence M. Kenney, 94

A funeral Mass for Lawrence W. Kenney, of Holbrook and formerly of Quincy and Jamaica Plain, will be celebrated Friday at 10 a.m. at the Divine Mercy Parish in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

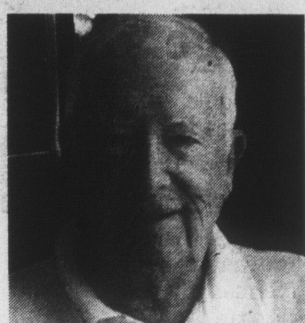

Mr. Kenney died peacefully May 19 at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston. He was 94.

Born in Dorchester on Aug. 31, 1926, he was raised in Jamaica Plain and was the son of the late Luke and Annie (Reilly) Kenney. He attended local schools and graduated from Boston English High School with the Class of 1945. After high school, Mr. Kenney enlisted into the United States Army and proudly served his country during WWII. He was honorably discharged on Nov. 28, 1946. Following his time in the service, Mr. Kenney continued his education at Northeastern University and earned his bachelor's degree in business. Before retirement, Mr. Kenney worked as a field representative in the insurance industry. He enjoyed his work and the relationships he built throughout the years.

Mr. Kenney was the beloved husband of the late Dorothy (Lewis) Kenney, who died in 1993. The two shared many loving years of marriage. He was the devoted father of Lawrence J. Kenney of Holbrook and William P. Kenney of Woburn. He is also survived by many loving nieces, nephews, extended family and friends. He was preceded in death by his siblings: Francis Kenney, Marie Fergus and George Kenney.

Lawrence, aka Uncle Lawrence, Uncle Larry or Larry Sr. was an avid and accomplished golfer and enjoyed playing at the Easton Country Club and the Ponkapoag Golf Course in Canton as well as watching professional golf on television. In his later years, he also enjoyed watching Red Sox baseball games and New England Patriots football games along with a number of game shows, Jeopardy! being his favorite. Later in life he also enjoyed playing billiards from time to time and was a very good ping pong player.

Mr. Kenney was a selfless person with a great sense of humor. He was a loving husband and father who was easy going and known for having a very nice presence about him. Mr. Kenney's life lessons and example are part of his legacy that continue through his family. He will be missed by all the lives he touched.

Visiting hours are 4 to 8 p.m. Thursday in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy. Face masks are required to be worn by all guests while in the funeral home.

Services will conclude with interment and military honors in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Salesian Missions, 2 Lefevre Lane, New Rochelle, NY 10801-5710.

stuff started happening in February [2020]."

Chan said he did not experience any incidents of discrimination personally, because he remained home during the pandemic, but has heard about such incidents in the region.

"There is some discrimination I have heard through second-hand about refusal of services, even around here on the South Shore. People giving them that second look. People being screamed at through windows," Chan stated.

During the recent interview, Chan said it would make sense for the city of Quincy to have a department like the Department of Social Justice and Equity. The City Council approved the creation of the department in January, but Mayor Thomas Koch declined to include it in his budget for the upcoming fiscal year, instead saying he would create a commission to study the matter.

"Maybe it is not specifically named that way, but there should be some department who does an evaluation regarding the makeup of the city as well as does it provide good services to all the people in the city," Chan said.

"You can do a comparison. Lowell started off much worse off than Quincy.

I don't know if you've been to Lowell. In the '90s, it was tough. You have this massive amount of Cambodians, dark skin, come in, don't speak the language, all refugees."

"They have made a lot of progress," Chan added. "The only elected [Cambodian American] state legislators in the country are from Lowell. They have two city councillors now – they had three. They got the U.S. Department of Justice to break up the city into wards for the first time, because citywide election hurts minorities from getting elected to council and school committee."

AAA: Gasoline Prices Average $2.91 Per Gallon

Massachusetts's average gas price is the same as last week, averaging $2.91 per gallon. Monday's price is 15 cents higher than a month ago ($2.76), and 93 cents higher than May 24, 2020 ($1.98). Massachusetts's average gas price is 12 cents lower than the national average.

"Holiday road trippers may come across some gas stations with low fuel supply in popular travel destinations, like beaches, mountains or national parks. However, markets are not expected to be fuel-less, like we saw in the wake of the pipeline shutdown," said Mary Maguire, AAA Northeast Director of Public and Government Affairs.

Early Deadline For Next Week's Quincy Sun

Because of the Memorial Day holiday Monday, there is an early news and advertising deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

News, church, organizations and youth sports releases, retail and classified advertising and legal notices for the June 3rd issue should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, by noon tomorrow (Friday).

The June 3rd issue will be circulated Wednesday, June 2.

The Sun office will be closed Monday, May 31 in observance of Memorial Day.

16 Candidates Pull Nomination Papers For Fall Election

They are: Incumbent School Committee members Douglas Gutro of Arnold Street, Emily Lebo of Highland Avenue and Courtney Perdios of Ruggles Street.

Four challengers have emerged in the race for School Committee: Ellen Patterson O'Donnell of Hatherly Road, John McDonauld of Quincy Shore Drive, Liberty Schaaf of Howe Street, and Liz Speakman of Merrymount Road.

Courtney Perdios was appointed to the committee in February, filling the remainder of Andronico's term. O'Donnell, Schaaf and Speakman were also nominated for the seat during the joint convention.

Courtney and Steven Perdios are married, and this is believed to be the first time a wife and husband have both sought municipal office in the same election in city history.

The deadline to return nomination papers to the Board of Registrars is 5 p.m. on July 27 and certified nomination papers, including a statement of candidacy, must be submitted to the city clerk by 5 p.m. on Aug. 10.

The signatures of 50 registered voters are required to run for each office in a municipal election. Residents seeking one of the six ward councillor seats must obtain the signatures from within their ward.

If needed, a preliminary election would be held on Sept. 14. A preliminary election would be required if more than two candidates run for one ward council seat, or if more than six ran for either councillor at-large or the school board.

The final election is slated for Nov. 2.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although you would prefer to move forward at a steady pace, it might be a good idea to stop and reassess your plans. You could find a good reason to make a change at this time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Just when you thought you had everything planned to the smallest detail, you get some news that could unsettle things. But a timely explanation helps put it all back on track.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Home and work continue to compete for your attention. But you handle it well by giving each its proper due. Someone you trust offers valuable advice. Listen to it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Unsettling news creates a difficult but not impossible situation. Continue to follow your planned routine, but keep your mind open to a possible change down the line.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Lick your wounded pride if you like, but it's a better idea to find out why your suggestions were rejected. What you learn could help you deal with an upcoming situation.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Feeling a bit listless? No wonder. You might be pushing too hard to finish everything on your to-do list. Cutting it down could help get your energy levels up.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Taking time out of your busy schedule might be the best way to handle that sensitive private matter. It will help reassure everyone involved about your priorities.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Insist on full disclosure by all parties before agreeing to be part of a "great deal." What you learn should help you decide whether to go with it or not.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your decision to protect the secret that was entrusted to you might irk some people. But it also wins you the admiration of those who value trust and loyalty.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Creative activities take on a practical approach as you realize you might be able to market your work. Ask for advice from someone experienced in this area.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) If you're suddenly a bit unsure about your decision, ask trusted colleagues and/or friends or family members for suggestions that could help resolve your doubts.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A workplace situation could get stormy. But stay on course until there's a solution that meets with everyone's approval, and things finally can calm down.

BORN THIS WEEK: You keep an open mind on most matters, making you the confidante of choice for people who need your honest counsel.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Leonardo DiCaprio is already working on the remake of the Danish film "Another Round," this year's Academy Awards Best International film. The Danish original starred Mads Mikkelsen, who we've seen in "King Arthur" (2004), with Clive Owen; "Casino Royale" (2006), with Daniel Craig; "Doctor Strange" (2016), with Benedict Cumberbatch, among others. Mikkelsen also is in the untitled third "Fantastic Beasts" film.

Fans of the Disney film "Enchanted" (a $340 million grosser in 2007) can celebrate a sequel that's on its way with the original cast. Amy Adams, James Marsden and Patrick Dempsey are returning, along with "Frozen's" Idina Menzel, Maya Rudolph, Yvette Nicole Brown and Snow White's Seven Dwarfs. Word is that Dempsey, who recently returned to "Grey's Anatomy," will be singing in this sequel.

Barring unexpected setbacks from the pandemic, studios are planning to unleash the biggest and best films they have to attract moviegoers. "A Quiet Place, Part 2," one of the first casualties of COVID 19, is set to open May 28, along with Emma Stone's "Cruella," co-starring Emma Thompson. June 25 will bring "F9" ("Fast & Furious 9"); July 9 brings Josh Lucas and Will Patton in "The Forever Purge," for the "Purge" franchise fans. Sports fans will be dazzled by LeBron James, playing himself, in "Space Jam: A New Legacy," opening July 16.

"The Green Knight," with Oscar-nominee Dev Patel as Sir Gawain (King Arthur's nephew), Alicia Vikander, Sean Harris and Joel Edgerton, promises ghosts, giants, thieves and swash-buckling come July 30. Also that day, Dwayne Johnson and Emily Blunt travel on a small riverboat through a supernatural jungle in "Jungle Cruise."

"The Suicide Squad" swings back into action Aug. 6, with Margot Robbie, Viola Davis, Taika Waititi, Sylvester Stallone, Idris Elba and Pete Davidson. The remake of the science-fiction epic "Dune," starring Timothee Chalamet, Zendaya, Rebecca Ferguson, Jason Momoa, Dave Bautista, Oscar Isaac, Javier Bardem, Josh Brolin, Charlotte Rampling and Stellan Skarsgard, is unleashed Oct. 1 into theaters and on HBO Max.

James Bond spies again Oct. 8 in "No Time to Die," and yet another sequel, "Halloween Kills," with Jamie Lee Curtis, arrives Oct. 15 to stalk Halloween. The new "Ghostbusters: Afterlife," with Bill Murray, Dan Aykroyd, Ernie Hudson, Sigourney Weaver and Annie Potts, returns Nov. 11.

Tom Cruise's "Top Gun Maverick" finally lands Nov. 19, and the long-awaited (filmed more than a year ago) remake of "West Side Story" hits the streets Dec. 10.

Still awaiting an opening date is "The Tragedy of Macbeth," with Denzel Washington in the title role, along with this year's best actress Oscar winner, Frances McDormand, as Lady Macbeth and Brendan Gleeson as King Duncan. How can Lady Macbeth resist rubbing her hands together demanding ... "Out damn pandemic, out?"

KOVELS Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Decorative Humidor --- A reader sent us a picture of an item in an auction catalog that looked like a cookie jar decorated with racing horses, but it had a strange lid. What else could it be? Why horses on a cookie jar? The lid and the size, 7 inches high, are clues.

The jar is a humidor, a container for cigars, cigarettes, pipe tobacco and even cannabis that keeps the tobacco moist and shields it from sunlight, insects and damage. Humidors were necessary and very popular in the late 1880s to early 1900s, when smoking cigars was a sign of masculinity. Most vintage humidor cases are made of attractive wood and lined with Spanish cedar, a wood that holds moisture and does not warp. It also has a pleasant odor and discourages tobacco beetles. But humidors were also made of glass, ceramics, metal or even plastic.

The humidor pictured is marked with an "M" in a green wreath, the trademark used by the Morimura Brothers Company, a New York City import firm that operated from 1911 to the 1950s. The humidor is called the Kentucky Derby Scenic. It was probably made by Noritake, a Japanese company. It auctioned for $130 at an online sale of Nippon china by the Harritt Group of Indiana.

Q: What's the best way to clean a rubber doll? I've had mine for about 65 years, and it has a lot of sentimental value to me. It closes its eyes when it's laid down, cries when squeezed and has hair that can be combed. It's dirty from having been played with then left sitting in a corner. I cleaned it with Dawn detergent and water, but I don't think it did a thing. Is there something else I can use, or do I just accept that my neglect stays on the doll?

A: There are a few things you can try, but remember to test them out in an inconspicuous place, like the bottom of the doll's foot, first. It's better to have a slightly dirty doll than one that's ruined. Try rubbing off the dirt with undiluted detergent instead of detergent and water, or use a damp cloth dipped in baking soda. Other suggestions include rubbing the doll with an art eraser or using a damp "magic eraser." Just don't use anything that contains bleach.

Strange BUT TRUE

* Sir Isaac Newton invented the cat flap. Newton was experimenting in a pitch-black room when Spithead, one of his cats, kept opening the door and wrecking his experiment. The flap kept both human and feline happy.

* "Brave New World" author Aldous Huxley became almost completely blind as a teenager. He regained much of his sight later in life, crediting an unorthodox treatment known as "The Bates Method," which recommends never using eyeglasses and exposing one's eyes regularly to sunlight.

* The ancient Greeks believed that redheads would turn into vampires after they died.

* Walt Disney's "The Three Little Pigs," released in 1933, was seen as symbolic of the Great Depression, with the wolf representing the Depression and the three little pigs representing average citizens who eventually succeeded by working together.

* In Japan, Domino's started testing pizza delivery via reindeer in 2016.

* James Barry, the Inspector General of the British Army in 1858 during a period when women were not respected in the medical field, had a highly successful career in surgery for more than 50 years. During an autopsy after Barry's death, he was discovered to be a woman in disguise. To avoid embarrassment, the war department and medical association arranged for the doctor to be interred as a man.

* The average office chair with wheels travels about 8 miles per year.

* Chicago Cubs outfielder Rick Monday became a national hero when he rescued an American flag from two men trying to set it on fire at Dodger Stadium during a game on April 25, 1976. The 25,167 fans gave him a standing ovation and started singing "God Bless America."

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* With the start of barbecue season, here are two tips straight from my local butcher about grilling meat: First, let meats come to room temperature before cooking. It allows the meat to cook more evenly, and you won't end up with a cold center and a burnt outside. Secondly, when your meat comes off the grill, give it time to rest before serving. This allows the juices to redistribute throughout the cut of meat, and you'll end up with juicy goodness in every bite. -- JoAnn

* "For a really fun take on kebabs, use fruit instead of meat. The kids especially love fruit on a stick. If you have some neat cookie cutters, use them to cut watermelon into different shapes." -- M.M. in Michigan

* The best outdoor tablecloths, especially on a windy day, are fitted single sheets. Simply fit the sheet over a standard picnic table, and it's in place and ready. The elastic at the corners keeps it from flying away. You can look at thrift and discount stores for fun patterns or just plain colors!

* To keep ants from invading your patio, draw a thick line of chalk (sidewalk chalk works great!) as a boundary. Ants don't like to cross a chalk line and will leave your patio party alone.

* "Frozen grapes are the best summer snack for the kids, plus they are the perfect wine ice cube ever." -- J.R. in Oregon

Q: Why wasn't Anna Faris on the series finale of "Mom"? I know she left the show, but I really thought they would bring her back for the last episode. Other than that disappointment, the finale was great, and I'll really miss "Mom." -- O.B.

A: When "Mom" began in 2013, stars Allison Janney and Anna Faris appeared to have equal billing, and the plot mainly focused on repairing their mother-daughter relationship. However, the CBS sitcom also had a hilarious supporting cast played by Mimi Kennedy, Jaime Pressly and Beth Hall. Kristen Johnston joined their AA group in 2018, and William Fichtner became the perfect partner to mom Bonnie (Janney). The show was blessed with an abundantly talented cast, so when Faris decided to depart the show a season early, "Mom" didn't suffer too much without her.

As for Faris's absence in the finale, series co-creator Gemma Baker told TVLine.com that her character had "traveled a great distance over seven seasons and overcame so many obstacles in order to follow her dream of becoming a lawyer, it felt like that story had been addressed in a satisfying way, so we didn't revisit it for the finale."

Q: I saw that Lady Gaga was filming a movie in Italy when her dog walker was attacked back in the states. What project was she working on? -- E.M.

A: Singer/actress Lady Gaga just finished filming the "House of Gucci," with Adam Driver and Al Pacino. She plays Patrizia Reggiani, an Italian socialite who went to prison for her husband's murder. The film is directed by Ridley Scott and is based on the book "House of Gucci: A Sensational Story of Murder, Madness, Glamour and Greed" by Sara Gay Forden.

Lady Gaga was on location filming when her beloved French bulldogs were stolen. Her dog walker was shot, but thankfully survived, during the dognapping, and her fur babies were later returned safe. "House of Gucci" has a planned release date of Nov. 24.

Q: One of my favorite shows of the 1960s was "The Invaders." Why hasn't there been a climax to this series? Did they ever try to rectify this situation? Also, will there ever be a remake? -- S.L.

A: "The Invaders" was a cult TV series that lasted

Anna Faris

two seasons from 1967 to 1968. It starred Roy Thinnes as architect David Vincent, who witnessed an alien invasion and desperately tried to warn others, including the government, of the imposters among them. The show was produced by Quinn Martin, who was behind the hit series "The Fugitive" and many classic series in the 1970s.

According to Wikipedia.org, fans were not happy when "The Invaders" ended abruptly after two seasons with the aliens' plans only temporarily thwarted. There was a miniseries remake in 1995, also starring Thinnes. "The Invaders" airs on MeTV on Sundays at 5 a.m. ET. Check your local listings or MeTV.com.

Are Coyotes Really a Threat in Suburbs?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I bought a house in the suburbs last month. My next-door neighbor warned me that there is a coyote in the area and not to let my cat outside. I've read that coyotes are very shy and won't bother dogs, and they aren't fast enough to catch a cat. Should I just ignore the warning? -- Pet Dad in Marlborough, Massachusetts

DEAR PET DAD: Coyotes have made a comeback in the U.S. and are present in many suburbs and even in the city. While coyotes are less likely to attack larger dogs, they've been known to go after smaller dogs. And cats are not necessarily fast enough to escape, either. So, if the neighbors are reporting a coyote in the area, take heed. Don't let your cat or dog out in the backyard unsupervised.

Even if you have a fence around the yard, unless it's over 6 feet tall (and not all municipalities allow that height) it may not discourage a coyote from hopping it and nosing around.

Coyotes are mostly looking for food. They're opportunists. If there is cat or dog food left outside, for example, they'll eat it -- and probably come back later, looking for more. This is one way that conflicts with coyotes (and other local wildlife) can start. If they have a reason to come onto your property to begin with, and then start to see your pets as another food source -- you've got a problem.

To sum up:

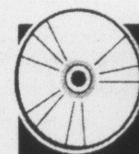

- Supervise pets when they're outside. Stay out there with them.

- Don't leave their food or water outside unattended; bring it in each evening.

- Consider wildlife-resistant fencing to keep coyotes and other unwanted critters out of your yard.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY AMY ANDERSON

The last Monday in May might mark the unofficial beginning of summer, but Memorial Day is not about barbecues or furniture sales; it's a very special day set aside to honor those truest of Americans who gave their lives in wartime service. Its roots are in Decoration Day, a time when people would set aside their day-to-day lives, visit cemeteries and decorate the gravesites of soldiers and seamen who died in the Civil War. After the tragic losses of World War I, and the conflicts that followed, Decoration Day slowly evolved to Memorial Day, cemented as a national holiday in 1971 by an act of Congress. Here are eight movies that honor the bravery and sacrifice of our fallen military heroes.

Glory — Matthew Broderick stars alongside Morgan Freeman and Denzel Washington in this Civil War story of the first all-African-American regiment, the 54th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry. Under the command of Col. Robert Gould Shaw (Broderick), the unit is formed, trained and fights for equality, both in the broader context of the Civil War and within the Union Army itself.

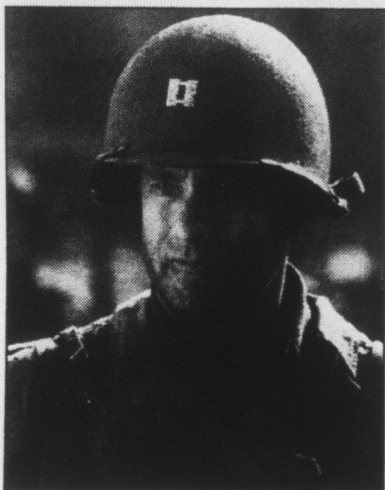

1917 (R) — A riveting first-person war story by celebrated director Sam Mendes, "1917" centers around two British lance corporals who are sent across enemy territory to stop a division of British soldiers from advancing into a German ambush.

The Longest Day (1962) — With a legendary cast — John Wayne, Robert Mitchum, Henry Fonda, Rod Steiger and more — the story of the Allied landing at Normandy Beach plays out, from early reports of bad weather to the tremendous loss of life and eventually the tide-turning influence of the largest seaborne invasion in history.

Flags of Our Fathers — From director Clint Eastwood, an iconic moment — the raising of the American flag on Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima — is reflected on in flashback by three servicemen involved.

Saving Private Ryan — From the opening sequence on Omaha Beach, to the sniper fire faced at every turn, Capt. Miller (Tom Hanks) leads a squad across France through questionable territory looking for the last survivor of four brothers to bring him home. The first 24 minutes are gut-wrenching and visceral.

Tom Hanks in "Saving Private Ryan"

Apocalypse Now — A Special Forces colonel gone mad (Marlon Brando), a burned-out captain brought in to seek out and reckon with him (Martin Sheen), a squadron commander who uses napalm to clear the way for surfing, this dark tale by Francis Coppola is on most major top-film lists.

Platoon — Written and directed by Oliver Stone — a Vietnam veteran himself — this film follows a volunteer soldier (Charlie Sheen) as he moves through his experience of combat and the jading of his idealism.

American Sniper — A biographical drama centered around the life of Chris Kyle, whose service in the Iraq War led to him being the deadliest marksman in U.S. military history.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — five of spades.

Some deals have built-in traps that may catch the unwary. Here is one such hand, taken from a par contest.

West leads a spade, won by dummy's nine, and the question is what to do at trick two.

If declarer plays a low diamond to the ace, which would seem the normal thing to do, he goes down against best defense. West drops his queen under the ace — to fail to do so would be fatal, since he could be forced to win the next round — and there is then no way declarer can establish dummy's diamonds without allowing East to gain the lead with the jack for the fatal spade return.

Of course, West must be on his toes to jettison the queen under the ace, but he should reason that if South has the jack of diamonds, the queen is worthless.

However, declarer's proper play at trick two is to lead a heart to his king, followed by the three of diamonds toward dummy. If West produces the queen, South allows him to hold the trick, after which declarer can't be stopped from making at least four notrump.

So let's assume West plays the seven of diamonds on South's three. In that case, declarer goes up with the king and returns a low diamond from dummy, ducking East's nine. West is forced to win the trick with the queen, and again South is certain of at least 10 tricks.

The deal is an excellent illustration of the great lengths a careful declarer must go to in order to keep the dangerous opponent — in this case, East — out of the lead.

Meniscal Tear In Knee Might Not Need Surgery

DEAR DR. ROACH: While chasing my cat, I dove to the ground and both my knees took a beating. They were bruised but felt fine. A few days after this, my left knee started to bother me. I put on a brace to see if that would help (as it usually does), but it didn't. I went to my chiropractor a few days later and had an adjustment and deep tissue massage. The next day, I was walking my dog and had to stop, as I couldn't move my knee. About 13 years ago, I had a torn meniscus in the same knee, and it healed without surgery with the assistance of my chiropractor, massage therapist and acupuncture.

I called my doctor's office, and he was out of town. His nurse suggested that I go to an urgent care facility to have an X-ray of my knee, which I did. The doctor said that nothing was broken but that I should follow up with an MRI. I saw my doctor a few days later and brought my X-ray, etc. He said I don't need an MRI. I am not looking for knee surgery, but wouldn't an MRI indicate if it is a torn meniscus, pulled ligament, osteoarthritis, etc., so I could get the proper treatment? What would that be? —R.Z.

ANSWER: The menisci are ring-shaped cartilage structures that sit on top of the tibia and provide stability and shock absorption to the knee. Given the mechanism of injury and your prior history, a meniscal tear is a very likely possibility. Symptoms that support a tear in the meniscus would include a locking of the knee or a giving sensation while walking, often associated with pain.

A careful physical exam can usually make the diagnosis of a meniscal tear. A suspected meniscal tear does not usually require an MRI, as most will heal with conservative management. (I refer nearly all to physical therapy rather than the treatments you used, but I won't argue with your success.) I reserve the MRI for people in whom surgery would be contemplated. Since surgery is no better than placebo for many people with a torn meniscus (based on a fascinating 2017 study from Finland), I am particularly careful to refer only people who have not gotten better with a good trial of conservative management.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have an affected nerve in my back causing long-term, persistent pain. Years ago, I damaged a sacroiliac nerve in a fall. This was treated by steroid injection. Could this nerve also be injected with a steroid? —J.D.

ANSWER: Injection of local anesthetics and steroids are done for several different types of back pain syndromes. However, the nerves themselves are not injected with steroids: It's the area around a nerve that is injected. That area may be inflamed, and the shot is given with the hope of reducing inflammation and thus reducing compression on the nerve and therefore pain. It does not always work, and when it does, the pain relief usually lasts a matter of months. The injections can be repeated if helpful; however, injecting steroids has its own risk of complications. Serious complications are rare, but infection and bleeding are possible. All injected steroids can predispose to osteoporosis.

Injection for back pain is done most often by pain management specialists when appropriate.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

Velvety Chicken and Rice Soup

We've always been partial to a hearty bowl of soup. Maybe it's because it's just so comforting and cozy. Whatever the reason, we hope you enjoy it!

- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 (16-ounce) can fat-free chicken soup
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 cup hot cooked rice
- 1 (2.5-ounce) jar sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken breast
- 1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
- 1/2 cup fat-free sour cream

1. In a large saucepan sprayed with butter-flavored cooking spray, saute onion for 5 minutes or until tender.

2. In a covered jar, combine chicken broth and flour. Shake well to blend. Add broth mixture to onion. Mix well to combine. Cook over medium heat until mixture starts to thicken, stirring often.

3. Stir in rice, mushrooms, chicken and parsley flakes. Add sour cream. Mix well to combine. Lower heat and simmer for 5 minutes or until mixture is heated through, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 (1 cup) servings.

• Each serving equals: 194 calories, 2g fat, 22g protein, 22g carb, 407mg sodium, 1g fiber; Diabetic Exchanges: 2 Meat, 1 1/2 Starch, 1/2 vegetable.

- Where was Jackie Wilson when he suffered a heart attack?
- Name the Simon and Garfunkel song that was used in the soundtrack for the 1967 film "The Graduate"?
- In which Hollies song does the name of the girl rhyme with "freckles"?
- Which group released "Natural High" and "Outside Woman"?
- Name the song that contains this lyric: "Come right back I just can't bear it, I've got this love and I long to share it."

Answers

- He was on "Dick Clark's Good Ol' Rock and Roll Revue," singing "Lonely Teardrops." Wilson had a habit of taking lots of salt pills and water to create sweating, which he thought looked great onstage. Unfortunately, that combination also causes very high blood pressure. He never sang again.
- "Mrs. Robinson." The following year it won a Grammy for Record of the Year.
- "Jennifer Eccles." The name came from the wife of one of the writers and the maiden name of the other writer's wife.
- Bloodstone, in 1973 and 1974.
- "Have I the Right?" by The Honeycombs in 1964. The pounding drums were enhanced in the recording by the group stomping their feet on the wooden stairs at the studio, recorded by five microphones.
